White Russians : An Emphatic Disclaimer

To the Editor of the
"North-China Daily News"

Sir,—Permit me to express through the medium of your esteemed paper gratitude to all your correspondents who for the past few days have been gallantly trying to elucidate the hard lot of Russian emigres in Shanghai and to defend their good name from unnecessarily harsh criticism. I hope Mr. Marc Greene's timely letter will help to bring forth even a greater number of ardent champions for our cause and thus will once and for all establish international community.

Remembering that you, Sir, strongly disapprove of clergymen who venture into politics, I still hope you will as courteously as ever accept this letter for publication. Forasmuch as my parishioners are looking forward to my guidance in all ways of life, I think I am justified in expressing my views on this most important question. Besides, this letter will answer Mr. Mark Greene's challenge for Russian organizations to come forth and express their attitude.

First of all, I do believe, that the odious meeting at the Astor House was sponsored and staged by irresponsible elements who are acting on behalf of a certain nation, and we, Russians, regard those elements with a deep sense of mistrust and repugnance. I am happy to state that absolutely no one of Russian Protestants participated in this notorious gathering, and everyone of those who discussed it with me was most emphatically against it. As a matter of fact, many asked me to convey their views in my letter to the press.

I further wish to state that Russian Protestants expressly asked me to state that our community consists of Russian patriots, and as such we shall always be friends to democratic nations. With a deep sense of horror and repugnance we have watched the bloody ventures of totalitarian nations in Abyssinia, in Spain and in China, and we definitely do not wish to entrust the future of our fatherland to fascists or imperialists. We are emigrés from Russia but it does not mean that we are ready to make a deal with our deadly enemies in order to overthrow the existing Government of Russia. Some 150 million Russian people have established this Government, and inasmuch as it is good for them we will not try to undermine their work. We may not agree with them, but we cannot ever consciously plunge them into a fiery and bloody inferno of a Civil war, just because there are some easy pickings for us in the future.

Besides these very strong considerations against our participations at that odious meeting—it seems to me we owe loyalty to the Chinese Nationalist Government. Having lived in this country for a number of years we must not forget that we enjoyed Chinese hospitality and liberty to work and earn our living. It seems to me it is, therefore, shameful and degrading to participate in any activities that are calculated to overthrow the lawful Government of China. Foreigners sympathise with China because of all those horrors she has been and is now going through. How many more reasons then have we the Russians, to sympathize with our Chinese brothers! And, to our shame, we must admit that there are some "White Russians" who are not so white where their conscience and gratitude is concerned. But not all of us! The vast majority is and ever shall be true and loyal to human and democratic principles. We pray and hope that China will emerge victorious from this horrible war for her liberty, and we are sure that the Chinese people will not place us all on the same footing with some moral degenerates who act at the bidding of our common enemy.

A. J. Leonidov, B.D. Minister, Russian Protestant Church.

The Intention to Hurt

To the Editor of the
"North-China Daily News"

Sir,—I read with appreciation your admirable editorial on the Russian question in the November 10 issue of your journal, as well as Briton's sympathetic and very sensible letter yesterday (I wish to express my gratitude to him). One should expect that now my compatriots will have enough sense and good taste to close the controversy. But the letters are still pouring in.

As to Mr. Greene's proposition to prove Russian sincerity, I should think, with all due regard to him and his writing ability, and apart from any political views, that it is hardly worth anybody's while to take pains to prove things to a person, who, being chagrined, due to his rather hasty conclusion, does not hesitate to add some abusive colour to his letter. Russians (those soberly thinking, at any rate) are not very deeply concerned nowadays about "Ex's" of the past and their ex-mistresses. So the shot does not strike its mark, but the intention to hurt is obvious.

Average Emigrant.

The Song of Africa

Members of Family of God

Sermon Preached in Holy Trinity Cathedral By Dean Trivett at Evensong on Nov. 5

Text:—"Twelve gates..on the east three gates; on the north three gates; on the south three gates; and on the west three gates." Revelation 21, 12-13.

WHEN St. John in his vision saw the Holy City — the New Jerusalem, the city of the Redeemed, the dwelling place of those who had washed their robes and made them white in the Blood of the Lamb—it is clear that the entrance gates made a deep impression on his mind. Over and over again he comes back to them in this chapter from which our text is taken—speaking of their number, their substance, their beauty, and the names that were written on them. He tells us that they were twelve in number, and at the gates twelve angels. He tells us further that the twelve gates were twelve pearls, every several gate was of one pearl. In our text he tells us that they were placed three on every side, looking away to the four quarters of the compass; East, West, North, and South. And in the closing verses He tells us that they shall not be shut at all by day, for there shall be no night.

It is all a picture, of course,—a picture not in colours, but in poetry. A picture of the great love of God the Father. God would have all men be saved. And the twelve gates wide open, facing every possible approach to the city, are an emblem of that love. The doors of the Father's house look out to all the world and they are shut neither day nor night.

"For the love of God is broader than the measures of man's mind
And the heart of the eternal
Is most wonderfully kind."

Significance of the Gates

For the city is the home of that Father whom Jesus Christ painted for us in the most beautiful of all his parables. The Father who watches and waits for the return of the Prodigal Son. And however late the wanderer may arrive, however undeserving he may be, he will find a welcome. Yes, our Heavenly Father waits to be gracious. Come when, or how, or whence, we may, those gates stand open wide before us.

But surely the many gates facing every way have still another significance? A suggestion in regard to the nature and the character of the pilgrims who shall enter. May not these twelve gates suggest that from many places, and by devious ways, men are led to a knowledge of the saving power of Christ. The New Testament itself supplies us with abundant illustrations of this. Think for instance of the variety which existed inside the little band of the twelve Apostles; fishermen of Galilee, disciples of John the Baptist, zealots and those with leaning toward the revolutionary party; then Matthew from the ranks of the Pharisees. Or think of the various ways in which they were led to give up their old life and follow him. It has been the same ever since, indeed I would premise that it would be difficult to find two people whose spiritual history is exactly similar.

One has only to read religious biography to realize the amazing variety of religious experience. Men are led to Christ by many different ways. Some can lay their finger on the day and the hour when they experienced that great change we call conversion. Others, just as real Christians, have never had such an experience, they have just grown up into it, or by slow degrees they have come to know Christ their Lord and Master, their Saviour. The great danger is for us to think that our way is the only way, to make one type of experience the rule and to think that no one who has not been through it can be soundly converted or saved.

Many Ways

There are twelve gates,—many different ways,—but they all lead into the same kingdom. Perhaps our Lord had this in mind when he delivered that wonderful series of parables which we know as the parables of the Kingdom. The working of grace in the human heart is compared, you remember, with the growth of the mustard seed, the action of heaven, the seed in the field. Again it is like hid treasure one finds in a field. And again it is like the pearl of great price, the reward of struggle and sacrifice. There are diversities of operation but the same spirit. There is no one stereotyped method of finding salvation, there is no one and invariable type of religious experience. For the city of God has twelve gates, many different ways. Some find the way easy, others only attain salvation after bitter struggle. Paul finds Christ through the blinding lightning flash. Timothy found his way into the kingdom through the teaching at his Mother's knee, and the example of his saintly grandmother.

There are men like Newton and Bunyan who only find peace and rest after passing through seas of trouble and dark nights of doubt. They enter by the northern gate. There are others who are naturally born to faith and who amid sheltered surroundings pass without struggle into the kingdom, who enter by the southern gate. A great host of little children enter through these gates that face the dawn,—the eastern gates. While others who have lived the allotted span, find, at life's close, their way into the kingdom through those gates which face the sunset.

Different Faiths

But not only do the twelve gates,—three facing each point of the compass, and open continually,—suggest the wideness of God's love and the amazing diversity of individual religious experience, but may we not also find in it a suggestion in regard to the diversity which we find among the churches of Christ. A diversity which often distresses the earnest Christian. May not our text suggest that out of different churches men enter into fellowship with the same Christ. Indeed, the diversity of character and of religious experience demand diversity of expression and of worship. We make a great mistake if we think that there is only one safe gate into the city of God. Whether that gate be the Church of England gate, or the Presbyterian gate, or the Roman gate. No, there are twelve gates. There is no one divinely appointed Church which is the sole channel of grace. Out of all the churches God's redeemed will come. There are some people so constituted that they seek an external authority on which to lean. Such will always seek the Roman Church. And out of this Church many faithful and loyal souls will come into the Kingdom. And others again prefer the less elaborate services of the free churches or the spontaneity and fervour of the Salvation Army; and out of them, many faithful and loyal souls will come.

Our Epistle on All Saints Day reminded us that before the throne of God in Heaven stand a great multitude, "Which have come out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Therefore are they before the throne of God." A great multitude of all nations and kindreds, and peoples and tongues. Yes, and I have no doubt out of all churches. John in his vision recognizes the diversity, but as clearly, he saw that they are all one in their relationship to Christ. All one in Christ. And surely the recognition of that fact will be one of the joys of Heaven.

A Great Company

It may be mingled with shame that we did not at all times recognize one another as fellow citizens down here, but it will be one of the joys of Heaven nevertheless, that we shall meet in the heavenly city, men and women who have travelled by other ways. A great company, out of many churches, who have travelled by different ways, who have entered by different gates, but who now stand before the throne and join one song of praise to God who has redeemed them by the Blood of Christ. The Communion of Saints may be marred and broken here on earth by sectarian division and narrowness, but the remembrance of the twelve gates should ever remind us of our essential unity, and preserve us from intolerance and uncharitableness. Church of England, Non-Conformist, or Roman, we may travel by different ways, but one day we shall all sit down together as members of the one family of God before his throne in his heavenly kingdom.

Britain to Fight Cancer Scourge

England and Wales Suffer Heavily By Lack of Facilities

Special to the "N.C.D.N."

London, Nov. 9.

The Minister of Health, Mr. Walter Elliot, has announced that the Government will introduce a bill during the present session of Parliament for the establishment of cancer service.

It is hoped to make available modern facilities for diagnosis and treatment over the whole of England and Wales.

The mortality rate from cancer, according to Mr. Elliot, has been rising steadily for many years. It causes nearly 70,000 deaths a year in England and Wales alone, and an incalculable amount of suffering.

He said that he regarded it as a matter of urgent public necessity that the Ministry should make a sustained and organized attempt to deal with the problem on the broadest national lines.

The existing facilities are said to be manifestly inadequate, and the Government's aim is to extend them and make them available to every member of the community standing in need of them.—Reuter.

British Rearmament Mystery Unsolved

Vast Expenditure With Little Result Shown

London, Nov. 11.

London financial circles' greatest interest in the new Parliamentary session today was centred on the question "Where has the money gone?"

According to official figures, Britain has spent £110,000,000 for aircraft since the rearmament programme began in 1935. If the Government had spent £15,000 per plane, it should have had about 7,000 planes during the recent European crisis. Official figures revealed that there were many less.

During the past four years the British Government spent £43,000,000 for guns and ammunition, but only 2½ per cent. of the proposed anti-aircraft stations established during the Czech crisis were manned with modern guns—and only twenty per cent. of the stations had any guns at all.

The popular view of financial circles here is that mismanagement must have occurred to make necessary during the European crisis that the Thames Embankment should be guarded by an anti-aircraft gun built in 1917.—United Press.

Peiping Consolidated Tax Increases

Peiping, Nov. 12.

The Consolidated Tax Bureau in Peiping collected $600,000 for September and October in consolidated tax, which is a record since its establishment several months ago, according to figures released by the Bureau.

Last winter, collection of consolidated tax in Peiping amounted to less than $100,000, and in spring this year it increased to $300,000. Since then it has been steadily increasing.—Reuter.

East Hopei Bank to Reopen Branches

Peiping, Nov. 12.

The East Hopei Bank, which closed a number of its branches after the outbreak of the hostilities last year, is making preparations to reopen them, states the Chinese press.

Up to the present, it adds, the branches of the bank at Fengjen, Luanhsien and Shukehuang, all in the former demilitarized zone, have been reopened.—Reuter.

Mr. Kodama Coming Here at End of Month

He will be accompanied by Mr. Kaname Hirasawa, vice-president, and other directors among whom are included Mr. Kiyoshi "Tiger" Kanai. The Hakozaki Maru is due at Shanghai on November 28.—Domei.

Lesson Sermon

First Church of Christ, Scientist.

Mortals and Immortals: is the subject of the Lesson Sermon read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, throughout the world on Sunday, November 13. Golden Text:—II Corinthians: 5:17. "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature: old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new." Among the citations which comprise the Lesson Sermon is the following from The Bible:—"I am the Lord, and there is none else, there is no God beside me: I girded thee, though thou hast not known me:" (Isaiah 45:5.) The Lesson Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:—"Science reveals the possibility of achieving all good, and sets mortals at work to discover what God has already done; but distrust of one's ability to gain the goodness desired and to bring out better and higher results, often hampers the trial of one's wings and ensures failure at the outset."

Sixty Years Ago

From the "North-China Daily News" of November 14, 1878

The most lively presentment of Peking at the moment we believe to be found in Sir Walter Scott's picture of the Court of Alexis Comnenus, in the novel of "Count Robert of Paris." The Chinese attention to minute and absolutely unimportant details of ceremonial, the outward reverence for Imperial institutions, the hollowness and corruption of the statesmen and magistrates are all faithfully figured in the sketch to which we refer. And as in Constantinople in the 11th century, so in Peking in 19th, there is the ever present apprehension of the clash with the material strength of the Western military powers. Yet, though these are the elements now at work in Peking which cannot fail to fasten the attention of every traveller with a soul above curios, there is one peculiarity of the life at Peking which depresses and hangs about one to an extent which cannot be described. It is the leaden weight of apathy and sluggishness which we cannot remove. No one seems able to breathe freely. No one seems able to speak freely. The Ministers who go up full of energy and bold intention are soon petrified into grave and decorous statues. The solemn dullness of the scene knows no relief. There is an air about the place and the people, which one has to feel, crushing one's own activity and vigour, before one can describe it in words.

Don't Give In To Indigestion!

It is not necessary to ask the indigestion sufferer if he has taken anything for it. That is a foregone conclusion; but so many so-called 'cures' are merely temporary palliatives.

There is one way to overcome indigestion which has given immense and permanent satisfaction to innumerable formerly chronic dyspeptics throughout the world, and that is tonic treatment through the blood by means of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

It is from the blood that the digestive juices are obtained: it is from the blood that the stomach, liver and other digestive organs derive the power to perform their daily functions. And as a blood purifier, blood maker and blood tonic, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have stood pre-eminent for over half a century.

Thus, in a few words, is explained the reason for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills' success in stomach ailments. Prove their value for yourself. Your chemist sells

WOMAN'S PAGE

A London Letter

By Olive Dun

London, Oct. 23.

I was reading recently an article by a girl whose theme was that she wished she could have been her own mother. As this would mean that she would now be dead or dragging out a savourless old age, one must not take her too literally. But on the general count of the tranquil, unstudied security of 30 or 40 years ago, she had a convincing argument—low income tax, cheap commodities (£1,000 a year then really meant something), no servant problem, and the strong shield of a Navy equal to any other three afloat. Perhaps the chief item in the comfort of those days was the lack of self-consciousness. Duties were performed as the ordinary occupation of life, they had not assumed the bristling, harrying form that they have now, when we are never at ease in doing anything through a feeling that we ought to be doing something else. I wrote a few weeks ago of the preparations that were being made to send the Parisian Evening Dress.—It is composed of fawn-colored chaly satinée a rich running pattern of chaly ground Corsage, à la Corset. A blond lace scarf, disposed something in the style of court lappets flows gracefully over the shoulders. Fancy jewellery.—Ladies Pocket Magazine," 1833.

"lovelies" to school again with daily lectures on political campaigning, sociology, economics. Now the crisis has forced upon us sterner tasks. Every other woman you meet is training herself for some branch of "national emergency" service, and great ladies are forming cohorts of volunteers in which discipline is enforced with the rigour of Prussian barracks. It would seem that, the Government having obviously let us down badly in respect of the national defences, the people are taking matters into their own hands. But how our gentle mothers would have stared.

On the whole we take it all cheerfully enough. It is a great thing to feel important. But there is now a lot of fuss over the caps designed for the new Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service. The first designs for the uniform were, as I wrote, well received. I don't know whether they have been altered, but while the coat and skirt of the W.A.T.S. seem fairly acceptable, the cap has raised a chorus of condemnation. Something in shape like the men's cheese-cutter cap, it has a soft, baggy top, with a stand-up flap behind, which might be meant to turn down over the neck in rain. Anyone ought to know that women look best in a hard hat, say the critics. To which the War Office reply that the uniform is the work of a committee of 10 women in conjunction with the Territorials' Director-General. Probably the War Office will win. A decision by a Permanent Department is as the law of Medes and Persians. But no one seems to have seen the real point, which is that every woman has her own ideas of a hat, and no one wants to wear a hat like anyone else.

Iniquitous Builders

I looked in this week at the Small House Exhibition at the heaquarters of the Royal Institute of British Architects, which gives one a shocking picture of the way in which England is being defaced. In the past 10 years 2,000,000 small houses have been built, mostly of bad design and incredibly bad lay-out. Photographs taken from aeroplanes contrast the sensible and artistic arrangement of old-world villages, grouped about a central feature such as a village green and church, with the sprawling, untidy, wasteful way in which the suburbs of our big towns are eating up the country. Materials and constructions are mostly poor and shoddy, and sham architectural details are plastered about to hide bad construction. The only criticism of a very useful exhibition that one would make is that in trying to educate us to better taste, the architects have gone too far the other way. Most of the modern designs held up for admiration are of the ugly "packing-box" order; and one design of three houses in one was exactly like the tiers of trays pivoted on a single pillar, which you see in some offices.

Miss Ellen Wilkinson, M.P., in opening the exhibition, said that she would like to pass a law making it a penal offence for a speculative builder to build a house without engaging an architect. But what about the materials used? A most interesting lawsuit has been going on for several days, in which the Bradford Third Equitable Building Society is suing a Mrs. Borders, of West Wickham in Kent, for arrears in payment of £693 advanced to her on a mortgage on the £730 house she had bought. Evidence was given by two architects that the house was about as shoddily built as could be, bad foundations, green woodwork, sinking doors, windows that would not shut, weak floors, paper peeling from damp walls, groggy roof. A firm of builders estimated that it would cost nearly £600 to put the house in proper condition. As the case is not finished, one must not comment on it. But I have reason to know that the charges made by these architect witnesses would be true of a big proportion of the 2,000,000 houses run up in the past 10 years.

It should be added that Mrs. Borders, who is the wife of a labourer, is conducting her own case with a skill that has already got her the name of "the modern Portia." Only one point so far has stumped her. She did not know the meaning of the word "bressumer." How many people, not architects, do know that it is a beam placed horizontally to support an upper wall or partition?

Punctuation Enthroned

The Archbishop of York, presenting prizes at a Wanstead school, has been dwelling upon the far greater importance of good punctuation than good spelling. The latter, he said, "is one of the decencies of life, like the proper use of knives and forks. Intellectually it does not matter. But intellectually stops matter a great deal. If you are getting your commas, semi-colons, colons and full stops wrong, it means that you are not getting your thoughts right and your mind is muddied." That puts in a nutshell what the public have always felt about lawyers who, in their leases, convenants, wills and so forth, never put a stop at all. But although the Archbishop's remarks about spelling are dangerous food for children, one can see a lot in what he says about stops. Oscar Wilde, by his own account, once spent a whole morning's work in putting in a comma, and the next morning in taking it out. It is one of the oldest accusations against women that they have no idea of how to use stops and generally prefer dashes. Another difficulty is the correct use of capitals. For example, would you write "Regent Street" or "Regent street" And today's Collect (19th Sunday after Trinity) uses a capital for the word after a semi-colon. The printers of the Prayer Book must know what they are doing, but I should like to hear their explanation.

Shakespeare Again

In defence of the indifference for poor spelling the Archbishop recalled that Shakespeare spelt his name in four different ways. It is just possible that the near future may see the final clearing up of the old controversy whether "Shakespeare" was really written by Bacon. The tomb of Edmund Spenser, the Elizabethan poet, in Westminster Abbey is to be opened in order to see if it contains a farewell signed poem by Shakespeare. There is a fairly well authenticated story that when Spenser was buried, the poets of the time stood round and dropped their "tributes" (as Emmeline Grangerford would have called them) in the tomb, and presumably Shakespeare would have been among them. There are several difficulties in the way. It is known that Spenser was buried in Westminster Abbey, but there is no record of the burial nor of the precise spot where he was buried, though one may suppose it was under or near the Spenser Memorial. Further, unless the poems were hermetically sealed up, or written on parchment, they will be dust by now. But even if a poem signed "Shakespeare" was found, what does it prove? If, as the Baconians argue, Bacon got Shakespeare to let him use his name, because it would have been then below the dignity of the great man to write plays, might he not have done the same about a funeral ode to Spenser?

Things of the Theatre

A very curious exhibition opens tomorrow in London organized by the British Puppet Guild. From time to time we have puppet shows at some West End theatre, but it will be news to most people that so many persons all over the country are so much interested in this type of theatricals that they form a guild. Some 25 puppet companies, showing nearly 300 puppets, from Great Britain alone, are taking part in the exhibition, besides companies from France where puppetry has long been studied, and has created a number of classical characters, just as the old harlequinade of pantomimes has done. Visitors will be allowed to try their hand at working the strings, but this is obviously a matter of great skill and practice. The charm of puppetry is said to be that the manipulating actor is at last able to play every part in the programme, and that the puppets never "answer back" and are never late for rehearsal.

Another display next week on decidedly more realistic lines is a pageant of drama in Lewisham Town Hall, in which 300 children will perform. This is the work of the Lewisham Children's Theatre Guild, which includes 72 local schools. Not only is the pageant played entirely by children, but they have painted all the scenery and made all the dresses. The guild was formed two years ago and is a deliberate undertaking to build up a permanent school of acting by British children. A fund has been opened to which all the proceeds of the pageant are to go, with which it is hoped at some future time to build a Children's Theatre. Meanwhile the Lewisham children are being encouraged to try their hands at play-writing. Leading actors and actresses are taking great interest in, and giving their help to, an enterprise which plainly is full of exciting possibilities.

In the Days of Queen Adelaide

Extracts from the "Chit-Chat" Columns of the "Ladies' Pocket Magazine" of 1833

The Queen who figures in the "Chit-Chat" was Adelaide of Saxe-Meiningen, wife of King William IV of England, the bluff and genial "Sailor King" who was succeeded in 1837 by his 18-year-old niece Victoria. Miss Rothschild, whose Court dress is described, would be a daughter of Baron Nathan Rothschild who made a fabulous financial coup by transmitting first news of the victory of Waterloo—at which he is said to have been present—to the Rothschilds' London branch.

Queen's Drawing-Room.—On March the 21st, her Majesty held a drawing-room, which was very numerously attended. The most beautiful and attractive dresses were:—

Her Majesty.—An elegant blonde lace dress, over white satin, the body and sleeves ornamented with diamonds and blonde; train of blue terry velvet, lined with white satin, and trimmed with ermine. Head-dress, feathers and nick.

Her Royal Highness the Duchess of Kent.—A white crape dress, embroidered in gold, over white satin;

Parisian Ball Dress.—It is of white crape over gros des Indes. The skirt has a running pattern of flowers and foliage in pale rose color and green velvet. The corsage is trimmed with rose-colored crape, edged with embroidered tulle and knots of pink gauze ribbon down the front. The hair is decorated with a tiara and band of fancy jewellery; and a bunch of grapes and vine leaves.

train of cerise Irish tabinet, brocaded in gold, trimmed with a rich gold border to correspond with the dress. Head-dress, feathers and diamonds.

Duchess of Gordon.—A white satin dress, embroidered in gold, body and sleeves handsomely trimmed with blonde; train of celeste velour d'epingle, lined with white gross de Naples, and trimmed with gold. Ornaments, diamonds and torquoise.

Dowager Marchioness of Northampton.—A richly embroidered dress of black aerophane; train of watered striped satin; mantille of point lace. Head-dress, Court plume, lapets of point lace; ornaments, diamonds and topazes.

Duchess of Richmond.—A rich Chantille blonde dress, with pointed body, over a white satin slip, trimmed with blonde. Head-dress, feathers and diamonds.

Countess of Plymouth.—A silver lama dress, trimmed with point lace and blue feathers; train of blue velvet, trimmed to correspond.

Miss Rothschild.—White crape dress, embroidered in silver lama and white satin a moutant; train of blue watered silk, trimmed with silver and lined with white satin. Head-dress, feathers, pearls, brilliants, and lappets.

Fancy Fair at the Hanover Square Rooms.—Trumpets were sounded, from time to time, to prepare us for this Fair, to be held for the benefit of the Society for aiding Foreigners in Distress, and which, it was announced, would exceed in splendour and attraction everything of the sort that had preceded it;—there were to be contributions from the Empress of Russia, the Queen of France, the Queen of Belgium, the Queen of Sweden, the Princess Royal of Prussia, Her Majesty of England, the Duchess of Kent, the Princess Victoria, and many more illustrious persons than we can spare room even to enumerate. On Wednesday the Fair opened, and such was the crush of company that not one half got admittance, and many, who thought themselves fortunate in doing so, were carried out fainting. There were stalls for all nations: Her Majesty had three for England, Hanover, and Saxony, at which the Countess of Digby, the Countess Howe, the Baroness Ompteda, the Marchioness of Westmeath, and the Viscountess Beresford, attended as sellers; and at other stalls other distinguished persons presided. The result cannot fail to be serviceable to the funds of the institution, and so far so well; but we are old-fashioned enough not to be very sincere admirers of these new-fashioned charities. In this instance, where the lady-merchants were selected for name and rank, no great harm, perhaps, could result; but, on common occasions, youth and beauty are held to be the requisite qualifications; and the youngling of an innocent flock is often invidiously selected to be made a show of; and mamma is humoured into a thing, under pretence of charity, which in itself is exceedingly objectionable:

> The chariest maid is prodigal enough
> If she unmask her beauties to the moon.

So 'twas held heretofore; but to trick out a sweet innocent girl, and teach her to wear a marketable smile upon her face, and then offer herself for admiration at half-a-crown or five shillings a head, is what no charitable results can compensate us for: it strikes at the root of those modest blushing virtues for which English-women were of old honored and beloved. The extent to which these charitable bazaars are being carried, and the system on which they are conducted, is a growing evil; and, therefore, we protest against what may seem to sanction them, even at the risk of being thought a little straitlaced. Let any sensible man look to his experience in these matters, and then say how far we are wide of the truth in this condemnation. Athenæum.

Walking Dress.—It is composed of Esterhazy gros des Indes, and fits close to the shape; Amadis sleeves. Velvet bonnet of the new color ramoneur liner with white silk plush, and trimmed with a bouquet of ostrich feathers.—"Ladies' Pocket Magazine," 1333.

Victorian Frocks In Shanghai

Mme Gingeroff Displays New York's Latest

New York's latest love in the way of evening frocks is Victorian. The films about Queen Victoria and her marvellous reign started the idea—the effect of the dresses shown on the screen being so enchanting that every woman wanted to see herself in the same array. And then Queen Elizabeth's gala evening frocks for the Paris visit brought all the possibilities to life so entrancingly that the seal was set on the approval of the beau monde.

Mme N. Gingeroff, whose showrooms are at 205 Route Cardinal Mercier, just opposite the French Club, has returned from New York with a collection of these very frocks for the delectation of Shanghai. They are lovely—and they are amazingly wearable. She is making a special show of them in her windows. The display opened yesterday and will be continued until Wednesday evening, with new frocks showing each day.

In Paris now—

Often you'll see a woman in what appears to be a simple all-black suit, buttoned primly to the neck, without a sign of colour anywhere.

Then off will come the jacket to reveal a velvet blouse in candy pink, violet, jade or some other dazzling shade.

Antique Brass

To clean old brass without spoiling its character by giving it too bright a finish, treat it in the following way. Place a little finely powdered whitening in a saucer and moisten a cloth with linseed oil. Dip the cloth in the whitening and apply it to the brass, rubbing gently until a film of oily paste is spread over the whole surface. Then wipe the paste off and give a final polish with a soft, dry cloth.

Aching Feet

If your feet are aching after a tiring day and you want to freshen them quickly before going out in the evening, here is a simple way.

Place two handfuls of salt, one in a basin of cold water and one in a basin of hot. Stir it up until it dissolves. Soak a cloth in each basin, and apply to the feet and ankles alternately, first the hot and then the cold.

The salt is bracing; the hot and cold compress stimulates the circulation and draws out inflammation.

When a recipe calls for half a cup of butter, fill a cup half full of water, then drop in butter till the water overflows.

IMPARTIAL NOT NEUTRAL

BROADCAST BIRTHDAY

Today marks the commencement of the sixteenth year in the history of British broadcasting. It is true that in 1919 a station operated by the Marconi Co. conducted experimental transmissions from Chelmsford, but these were not continued. In 1922 on the initiation of wireless amateurs broadcasting was begun afresh from Writtle, near Chelmsford, and very shortly afterwards, as the result of negotiations between the Postmaster General and the leading radio firms and other interests, the British Broadcasting Company was set up. The scheme unified control over a nation-wide system, operated in close collaboration with the Post Office, and has made possible the development of simultaneous broadcasting on a scale unknown elsewhere. They were the days of the crystal receivers and comparatively weak transmissions, but in three years this form of popular entertainment had so caught on that by December 1925 the number of licences issued by the B.B.C. totalled no fewer than 1,500,000. Last year the number issued by the British Broadcasting Corporation as it is now known was 8,187,398 not including those issued to the blind for which payment was not demanded. Broadcasts designed to serve every part of the British Empire were eventually developed as receivers were improved, and practically throughout the day the B.B.C. is emitting news or entertainment which reaches practically every part of the world. Simultaneously with this huge development research was continuing into the problem of television, and this has progressed to such an extent that it has become a very real factor in the future entertainment and education of those who in the not very distance future will not only be able to listen in but also to see. Much has yet to be done before television apparatus will be sold as cheaply as the present machines for listening-in, but it is confidently expected that the time will come when television sets will be just as plentiful as the present very excellent instruments. Already they are commercially available, but prices are still high, though as transmission improves so will the market for receiving sets with a consequent reduction in cost through mass production.

A study of the various European broadcasting programmes indicates a very real common factor in the various national cultures, and in fact there is very little to choose in the nature of the fare provided by the various stations throughout the Continent, giving some hope that one of these days a better cultural understanding will be possible than at present exists. But broadcasting has not been wholly an unmixed blessing. In Britain advertising has been kept out of the programmes, owing to the success of the licensing system in bringing in adequate revenue for the operation of Broadcasting House and the preparation of suitable fare for the owners of receiving sets. In other countries trade announcements still form the main source of revenue, and the enjoyment of the programmes is often marred by statements as to the manufacturers, etc., who are sponsoring the various items. That the radio has become a powerful advertising force is undeniable, but the tendency to overdo it is a constant source of irritation. The inclusion of news in the daily broadcasts was stoutly resisted in Great Britain by the journalistic world, inspired by the fear that the dissemination of news broadcast would injure the fortunes of the newspapers. That has turned out to be a wholly mistaken idea, and while undoubtedly canvassing campaigns have had a great deal to do with the immense circulations of today, it is possible that the radio, far from injuring the newspaper, stimulated curiosity amongst listeners-in and induced them to buy papers for the purpose of reading in full what they had already heard in brief. It may to some extent have been responsible for developing the news policies of certain of the national newspapers along lines somewhat different from the original concept of journalism, and not particularly happy ones at that, but the amount of harm done is small compared with the good. Whether television will have any worse effect remains to be seen, though the fact that a watcher would be able to see only one thing at a time whether it were a football match or a fashion review, indicates that even from this direction the newspaper has not much to fear.

That the radio is a potent weapon for propaganda has already been proved especially in connecton with that directed towards the Moslem world, which necessitated counter-methods by Great Britain as recently as two years ago. Its potency is in all probability only useful in times of peace, for it is conceivable that one of the features of any outbreak of hostilities would be the complete "jamming" of the air, in which event the broadcast would become useless, as a means of propaganda offence or defence. Limiting consideration only to broadcasting's peacetime uses one of the main points with which future historians will probably concern themselves will be the part it has played in the educational development of the people. It is undoubtedly too early to endeavour to estimate the radio's value in this respect, though it will probably be found that it has stimulated much of that curiosity which induces many to study. Of this there can be little doubt: the broadcasting of good music has already done much towards improving the nation's musical taste, and while there is still much room for improvement, musical appreciation is much higher. It may be reducing the desire for musical accomplishment, and may also reduce the number of people who will study the art for the purpose of making it their profession, but at the same time it will ensure that those who do so will have to attain the highest possible standards as executants if they are to succeed in making a living at it. Whether the establishment of something in the nature of an artistic heirarchy by such means will be a good thing must be a matter of opinion, for there are still many people who believe that, after all, doing is better than mere, passive listening. Be that as it may there is not now the slightest doubt that wireless has brought a great boon to humanity and though there are some who will complain of a neighbour's occasional carelessness in the control of the loudspeaker, judged on its merits the verdict must be favourable to a system whereby so much enjoyment is provided at so cheap a rate.

A Great Man Dies

"Kemal Ataturk," Kemal the First Turk, "Kemal el Ghazi," Kemal the Conqueror, were the titles which the great man who now awaits burial in Turkey claimed for himself and looking back over his history for the past nineteen years no one will say that his claims were unfounded. In 1919 Turkey was helpless before the victorious Powers, who were planning to dismember her and bring her under western control. Her Arab territories were to be divided into mandated areas, while of Turkey proper Greece was to have had Thrace and Smyrna, Italy Adalia, the United States were to be asked to accept mandates for Constantinople and Armenia, while little but the Black Sea coast and the inner highlands of Anatolia would have been left to the defeated nation. But they had not thought of General Mustapha Kemal, known as a capable commander but otherwise thought to be of little account. He, in July 1919, summoned a National Assembly to prepare for resistance to the plans of the Powers. Constantinople ordered his arrest, and certainly no one realized at the time that what this man had done was the beginning of a new Turkey. With his indomitable will and ruthless energy he succeeded in establishing his own power and putting through a remarkable programme of reform, abolishing the weak Sultanate establishing the Republic of Turkey and becoming its President. The world was apt to smile when he abolished the fez, was more than a little surprised when he tore the veil from the women's faces, uprooted Arabic culture, alphabet and names. He ordered his people to take Turkish names, to become Turks first and last and all the time, while with all this he worked unrelentingly to modernize industry, agriculture, law, finance, the army, indeed everything to make the whole nation anew.

"In all that he was a type not unfamiliar in these days" writes W. N. Ewer in the "Daily Herald." "But whereas most dictators have been men of almost arrogantly austere lives, Kemal was a man of appetites well nigh as savage as his will.

As a young man he had been notorious even in Constantinople. He never changed his habits.

He would alternate between periods of furious work and almost as furious gaiety.

He would work at his desk all day, then dance and play poker and drink all night—until all his companions were senseless, and the "Grey Wolf," haggard but erect, could smile grimly at the grey dawn. And then to work again.

Foreigners who saw marvelled that any man could stand the double strain. His own followers marvelled, too, fearing that the end must be soon. But none dared protest, or warn him. Now the inevitable has come. The man was made of toughened steel, but it has snapped at last.

What now? For fifteen years this titanic man has forced a nation into new ways of his own devising, has remoulded it according to his own imperious will. Have fifteen years sufficed? Will the work endure? Can his successors bend Ulysses' bow?

That question can only be answered by time, but it is quite certain that Kemal Ataturk will be an outstanding figure in the history of his country, which was rescued from sub-division, kept whole and carried on to heights which it was never thought possible for the Turkey of the war ever to attain.

A Country Diary

November 12.—For the past two or three weeks I had been steadily losing my faith in the calendar; how could we say that the 8th. of November was the "beginning of Winter"... with a thermometer telling us that summer had not yet gone? Wild flowers too have been aiding and abetting the great deception—forget-me-nots and other spring flowers blooming alongside the wild chrysanthemums of autumn. Only the birds have faithfully kept their dates: at the first sign of an early morning chill in the air the Pale Ousel with his little white tail-tips came sneaking into my shrubbery, and now that beautifully painted creature the Daurian Redstart is here with a pure white snow-flake in the centre of each wing to remind us of events to come. But this morning what a difference I found on going my usual rounds: dull green winter wheat with a touch of frost on every blade....and farmer Wang surveying his land with his hands tucked well into his sleeves against the cold. Grandma too has put on her little woollen skull-cap....and every woman working in the fields has donned a padded coat—a sadly ragged one I fear, to prove to us the ill effects of war. And this is a very interesting point, for I have always noticed that wherever you may be, and wish to know to what extent the countryside is prosperous you have only to get the answer to the question, "are the women well or badly clad?": men are whimsy creatures about their clothes....the bankrupt may be a glass of fashion and the millionaire dressed like a tramp: but women have only one standard in clothes—the best that their money can buy. And here is a strange coincidence: after I had made the above observation in my rough diary I glanced through William Cobbett's "Rural Rides" and found that when comparing the prosperity of one English county to another he wrote, "the girls at work in the fields (always my standard) are not in rags...."; and he wrote that on the 8th. of November 1821—just 117 years ago!

Wrong Again

Two ladies were attending a concert in the Usher Hall. They looked about them.

"Nice building," said one lady, "what style of architecture is it?"

"I'm not quite sure," said the other, "but I think its Reminiscence."

MRS. Jones: We shall have to invite the Smiths to our wedding anniversary party, I suppose?

Jones: Certainly. I shall never rest until we get even with them for the rotten time they gave us at theirs.

An amusing incident occurred at a recent forenoon service at Springfield Church, Bishopbriggs. Choosing as his subject for the children "Animals Week" the minister exhibited a bill over the pulpit advertising "Animals Week."

Prior to the beginning of the service and, as the congregation was assembling, a black cat tried on five occasions to enter the church.

Four times it was prevented by two of the elders, who on two occasions dropped the animal over a wall adjoining the building.

Pussy then made another attempt, this time trying a side door, but one of the deacons who was ringing the bell frustrated its efforts.

Abandoning the attempt to enter the church the cat then made its way to a tree within the church grounds, and from there made itself heard with continual mewing during the service.

Anti-Jewish Action in Germany Extended

Drastic Measures Against Jews Announced And More Threatened: Indemnity Will Mean Tax of 10 per cent. On Property

Berlin, Nov. 13.

WITH the anti-Semitic campaign in Germany showing no signs of abating, hundreds of Jews are besieging the British and American Consulates in Berlin in an endeavour to secure visas. Arrests of Jews continue in Berlin. The number taken into custody is unknown, but it must amount to several thousands.

Meanwhile, "a number of most drastic measures" against Jews is announced. From January 1 next, Jews will not be allowed to manage retail trade, export businesses, commercial offices and handicraft businesses, and will not be permitted to act as managers. Further, all damage "caused through the indignation of the people over the agitation of international Jews on November 8, 9 and 10" must be made good by Jewish occupiers or Jewish businessmen, while sums derived by German Jews as compensation from insurance companies will be confiscated for the benefit of the Reich.

Further drastic measures for driving Jews out of Germany's economic life and the elimination of provocative conditions," the announcement adds, "will shortly be taken in the form of laws and decrees."

The announcement was made after a conference presided over by Marshal Herman Goering, righthand man of Herr Hitler, and attended by Dr. Frick, Minister of the Interior; Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda; Dr. Guertner, Minister of Justice; Count Schwerin von Krosigk, Minister of Finance; and Dr. Walther Funk, Minister of Economy.

The meeting decided that the milliard mark indemnity to be paid by Jews for the murder of Herr von Rath, Third Secretary of the German Embassy in Paris, should be levied in the form of a special tax on Jewish property. This property is valued at approximately ten milliard marks, so that the tax will be at the rate of about ten per cent.

It is understood that there have been few cases of British Jews whose property have been damaged during anti-Semitic disturbances. These cases are being closely investigated. If the claims are substantiated, it is learned that representations to the German Government by the British authorities will follow as a matter of course. —Reuter.

How It Will be Collected

Berlin, Nov. 13.

Speculation is rife regarding the method to be used in collecting the 1,000,000,000 Mark fine decreed against German Jews, but until the official enactment regulations have been announced by the competent Ministry, this question will remain unanswered.

Jewish wealth in Germany is known to official circles, the figures having been revealed when all Jews were obliged to register their property last July. According to informed circles, Jewish wealth in the Reich amounts to about 8,000,000,000 Marks while there is an additional 3,000,000,000 Marks in Austria. It is regarded as likely that a proportionate fine will be charged against each Jew on the basis of the registered property.

Another question is that concerning the livelihood for a considerable number of Jews who will be without income or means of subsistence following their expulsion from business and trade. National Socialist circles intimate in this connection that all Jews in the Reich will be banded together into a national federation and that within this organization the wealthy Jews will be required to support those of smaller means.

The anti-Jewish decrees passed here yesterday are not to apply to Jews of foreign nationality, Trans-Ocean learns from authoritative circles. Foreign Jews will continue to be designated as "foreigners" and consideration will be accorded to foreign capital invested in Jewish establishments, which as the result of present or future laws must be sold or liquidated.—Trans-Ocean.

Indignation in U.S.

Washington, Nov. 13.

A rupture of diplomatic relations with the Reich was advocated here today by Senator William H. King, Democrat of Utah.

"There is nothing a diabolical mind can conceive which cannot be carried out by Herr Hitler," he said.—Havas.

New York, Nov. 13.

Considerable indignation has been stirred up here by the anti-Jewish measures decreed in Germany.

Streamer headlines in newspapers announced the milliard marks fine imposed upon Jews in the Reich "for the murder of a diplomat by a young refugee in Paris."

Papers referred to "the wave of insanity over Germany," while many journals published pictures of "pogroms" in the Reich, which they termed "a threat to civilization."

The "New York Herald-Tribune" termed the billion mark fine as "an outrageous theft."

"The demon madness has taken possession of that great nation," the journal added. "The rest of the world must maintain its own sanity as best it can and pray that there will be a deliverance from the nightmare that blackens the whole contemporary scene."—Havas.

German Press Comment

Berlin, Nov. 13.

The first comment on the far-reaching anti-Jewish laws promulgated yesterday appears in the press service "Deutscher Dienst," which writes as follows:

"Two days ago the German people spoke. Under the impression of the news of von Rath's death they spontaneously demonstrated their immense indignation towards the Jews. After Dr. Goebbels' proclamation the people waited in complete discipline for the measures that would be taken by the Reich against the Jews. This reply was given with unexampled speed.

"Now it is the Government that speaks. The reply given by the Government fully meets the people's expectations. It is a just retribution for the cowardly murder committed by a Jew and a clear warning to the Jewry throughout the world never to lay hands on a German. The world Jewry has severely tested the German people's patience and must blame itself if the German people's patience is now exhausted.

"It is not quite three years ago since the Jew Frankfurter shot and killed the German, Wilhelm Gustloff,

German Standpoint On Jewish Issue

Dr. Goebbels Says Events Symptomatic of Infection; Clear Division Wanted

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Berlin, Nov. 13.

Events in Berlin during the last few days were nothing but symptoms of an infection which had sought to creep into the body of the German people and, indeed, into the body of all nations in Europe and far beyond, declared Dr. Joseph Goebbels, Minister of Propaganda, in explaining the Nazi standpoint on the whole Jewish question in an exclusive interview with Reuter.

"We Germans," Dr. Geobbels said, "have come to grips with the symptoms of the infection and must continue to do so. Whether others do the same does not concern us.

"We do not want to destroy Jewish culture. There exists in Germany a Jewish culture association, with its own theatre and music halls and its own orchestra in Berlin. Three days ago it closed down, but I have had it opened again.

"We want a clear division between Germans and Jews. Jews are allowed to open winter-help organizations. We will not touch a penny of these organizations. Moreover, people abroad do not realize how rich Jews in Germany still are."

Replying to a question, Dr. Goebbels said whether the present series of laws would finally settle the Jewish problem depended upon the Jews themselves.

"Will the new laws apply to British, American and other Jews?" asked Reuter.

"No," replied the Propaganda Minister. "British, American and other Jews," he added, "are for us members of the British, American and other nations, though their nationality is for us to decide and not for others."

Ghettoes To Be Established

Dr. Goebbels denied his intention to establish ghettoes, but said he would terminate a situation in which small Jewish families lived in large houses while Germans lacked suitable accommodation.

In reply to a queston how Jews could henceforth get a living, Dr. Goebbels said they could sell their businesses and live on their investment and interest or they could do productive work.

The Minister accused foreign Jews of starting an anti-German campaign.

"We are not taking the present measures out of revenge but necessity," he added.

In connection with the new laws being planned for Jewish businesses, Dr. Goebbels emphasised that in no way would foreigners be harmed or foreign property attacked.—Reuter.

National Home, Only Solution

German Action Described As Backslide to Barbarism

London, Nov. 13.

Jews everywhere are left in terror and hopeless of any future in Germany, declares the "Sunday Times" today when commenting on the German reprisals. This is a back slide to barbarism, the paper adds, for which it is difficult to find a parallel.

The newspaper continues that the only permanent solution for the Jewish people is a national home. Somehow and somewhere a secure dwelling place must be found for those who, under extreme nationalism and racial hatred, are harried across national frontiers.

The "Observer" says that in June, when big issues of peace or war were beginning to form on the horizon, the German Government decided to indulge in one of its periodic orgies of Jew-baiting to the accompaniment of brutality and atrocity such as passes the understanding of normal human beings. Now, in still more delicate circumstances, the paper continues, they have let loose another, the inhuman form of which is worse than anything yet recorded.—Reuter.

Hungary on Side of Axis Powers

Foreign Minister Voices Appreciation of Help

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Budapest, Nov. 13.

The Rome-Berlin axis had shown itself to be an important factor in European peace during the crisis, declared M. Kalman Kanya, the Hungarian Foreign Minister, in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday.

He was happy, he added, that Hungary was always to be found on the side of the axis Powers in constructive work and peace.

Germany, Italy and Poland, I. Kanya asserted, had shown their sympathy for Hungary in concrete fashion during the Hungarian-Czech dispute.—Reuter.

Powers Seek Re-opening Of Yangtze

U.S. and Britain Protest Against Restrictions

Washington, Nov. 12.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, announced today that the United States had made representations to Japan on the reported Japanese restrictions of trade on the Yangtze river.

Mr. Hull said that sometimes occasions arise in connection with navigation problems on the Yangtze, necessitating the government's communications to Japan. He did not, however, specify what instance occasioned the latest Washington representations.

Mr. Hull also announced that no reply had been received from Tokyo in answer to the United States note of October 6, protesting against the closing of the "Open Door" in China. The Secretary of State also indicated that the United States representation was not parallel to reported similar representations from London and Paris.—United Press.

Conversations In Tokyo

London, Nov. 12.

Great Britain, France and the United States will continue the tripower conversations in Tokyo, initiated just prior to the paralled protests lodged with the Japanese government concerning closing of the Yangtze River to foreign shipping, authoritative circles declared today.

Representatives of the three nations, it is understood, discussed the question of action on the part of Britain, France, and the United States before presenting the protests to the Japanese Foreign Office.

It is reported here that Great Britain's strongly-worded protest called attention to the increasing number of Japanese merchant vessels in service on the Yangtze, although British shipping on the river—in defiance of existing treaties—is still impeded.

The note, it is believed, also called attention to the frequent Japanese promises to reopen the Yangtze after the fall of Hankow. It did not however, mention the Nine-Power treaty, to which both Britain and Japan are signatories, guaranteeing the "Open Door" in China, and which it is believed Japan considers outdated.—United Press.

Reply Expected Today

Tokyo, Nov. 13.

Replies of the Japanese Government to notes of the British, American and French Governments regarding navigation on the Yangtze River will be handed to the diplomatic representatives of the three Powers Monday by the Foreign Minister, Mr. Hachiro Arita, Domei was informed in reliable quarters today.

It was understood that the replies will state that in view of the fact that the Yangtze still is in the zone of military operations the Japanese Government regards the Powers' requests for free navigation as premature.

Mr. Arita will seek an understanding with the representatives of the three Powers on the question of navigation on the Yangtze, Domei was informed. Notes from the three Powers were received on November 7. The text of the government's reply was prepared yesterday after a conference by officials of the Foreign Affairs and Navy Ministries.—Domei.

South Bank of Thames To Be Improved

Big Development Scheme to Increase Amenities

London, Nov. 13.

A scheme, which will provide some remedy for the condition of the south bank of the Thames between the London County Hall and the new Waterloo Bridge, which has long been a subject of protest by town-planning enthusiasts and others concerned in the amenities of the London scene, will be recommended to the London County Council at its meeting on Tuesday.

The scheme of redevelopment which has been approved by the Minister of Transport, has been designed so that it will not preclude the construction of a Charing Cross Bridge in future.

The chief features of the scheme are the construction of an embankment wall in continuation of that in front of the County Hall to a point some fifty yards below Waterloo Bridge, and the provision of an open space 100 feet wide beside the river.

The footway in front of the County Hall will be extended to form a riverside promenade. Belvedere Road and Jenkins Street will be widened to 50 feet, York Road to 70 feet, and the Waterloo Bridge approach to 90 feet.

Nearly 2,000 people will need to be rehoused at a cost of approximately £300,000. The estimated net expenditure involved is £1,629,000. The grant from the Road Fund in respect of certain of the works will be at a rate of 60 per cent.—Wireless through Reuter.

Fall of Changsha is Expected: City Panic-Stricken

Foreigners Evacuating to Concentration Points; City on Mainland Reported in Flames

Hankow, Nov. 13.

CHANGSHA is now expected to fall within the week as a result of an amazingly sudden advance by the Japanese, according to foreign reports from that city received here today. Complete panic has reigned there for the past forty-eight hours, continue the reports, and the Chinese civilian population is evacuating by all available means, by junks, sampans or on foot, while Chinese troops and wounded soldiers are retreating to the west and south. Their general morale is reported to be bad. Sporadic firing is reported to have been heard when the soldiers endeavoured to commandeer small craft and other forms of conveyance. One bullet accidently hit the British gunboat Sandpiper.

The local Government departed last night or this morning and telephonic and telegraphic communications are dead, add the reports. Practically the entire city on the mainland was in flames this morning, the reports declare, but British property on the foreshore and Yale University, two miles down river, appear to be intact.

Meanwhile, Changsha's foreign community is reported to be safe and well. There is no consul at Changsha but Lieut.-Commander Eames, of the Sandpiper, at present has the situation well in hand.

With the exception of a handful of missionaries who refuse to move, all other foreigners were evacuating this morning to the A.P.C. and Socony installations and Yale University, which are situated between two and five miles down river.

They add that foreign shipping, including hulks and tugs belonging to Jardine, Matheson and Company and Butterfield and Swire, will be concentrated off the installations.

The Japanese authorities in Shanghai and also General Hata's headquarters in Hankow, the reports declare have been notified of this step, while a few days ago, high Japanese officers were shown maps marking British property in Changsha.—Reuter.

Japanese Aeroplanes Busy

Japanese naval aircraft bombed the Hwangsha station on the Canton-Hankow Railway, demolished a train-full of Chinese soldiers and cut the railway at several points in operations in Central China Saturday, according to a communique issued by the headquarters of the China Seas Fleet yesterday afternoon. The raiders strafed large concentrations of Chinese troops in the area south of Tungchen in Hupeh Province and bombed several villages used as military bases, the statement said.

Naval planes attacked Kinhwa, a Chinese supply base on the Hangchow-Nanchang Railway, and blew up freight cars, godowns, and provisions piled up in the yards, on Friday, the communique continued. Damage was described as "immense."

Large quantities of military supplies at Kungan in southern Hupeh were set on fire. Godowns and motor cars in the vicinity of Changteh and Taoyuan in northern Hunan were bombed and machine-gunned. Four Chinese gunboats near Shihshow in southern Hupeh were damaged. The naval raiders cooperated with the Army forces by bombing Chinese troops on the front lines, the statement said.

In South China naval planes raided Chinese forces in the vicinity of Taping, Tsingyun and Pingkong in Kwangtung and inflicted heavy losses on them, the statement concluded.

Ad. Sir Percy Noble In Canton

Canton, Nov. 13.

Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Noble, Commander-in-Chief of the British China Station, accompanied by the new Commissioner of Customs, Mr. B. E. Foster-Hall as well as a number of prominent Hongkong businessmen, arrived here aboard the British gunboat Seamew (262 tons) at 4.45 o'clock this afternoon.

Sir Percy was welcomed by a number of prominent British residents while a guard of honour of bluejackets were drawn up as he came ashore at 5.15 o'clock. He later proceeded to the British consulate where he will be a guest of Mr. A. P. Blunt, the Consul-General.—Reuter.

Chinese Guerillas Provide Difficult Task for Japanese

More Than 300 Clashes in This Area During Past Two Months; Japanese Claim Whip-Hand

Hankow, Nov. 13.

Chinese guerillas and stragglers isolated from organized units have suffered heavy losses at the hands of Japanese troops in mopping-up operations in Hupeh, Kiangsu and Chekiang, Japanese military authorities here claimed today. Mopping-up operations in the three provinces were making satisfactory progress, they said.

Japanese troops garrisoned at Tayeh routed about 150 guerillas in the vicinity of Hsinshihchiao, east of Wuchang, in a brief clash, according to a message received here. Chinese losses were estimated at 100 dead.

308 Clashes in Two Months

In areas around Wusih in Kiangsu and Hangchow in Chekiang, Japanese troops had 308 clashes with Chinese guerillas during September and October. The total Chinese losses in the engagements were placed at 2,560 slain. The Japanese took 210 prisoners and seized 425 rifles, 94,965 rounds of ammunition, 15 light machine guns, four heavy machine guns and seven trench mortars. Japanese casualties were said to have been small.

Mopping-up operations were going on also in the hilly regions near Kashing and in the vicinity of Wukiang in Kiangsu.—Domei.

Tokyo, Nov. 13.

A gang of Chinese terrorists alleged to have set fire to property in Hankow to hamper rehabilitation work has been rounded up by Japanese gendarmes, according to a press message from that city today.

Members of the gang were said to have been guerillas carrying out orders from Gen. Chiang Kai-shek. Mysterious fires believed to have been incendiary broke out in Hankow during the past few days.—Domei.

Shihchiachwang, Nov. 13.

Having met with a series of successive defeats in the areas under Japanese occupation, Chinese guerillas are rapidly disappearing, it was reported here from various districts.

By a series of lightning-like drives against guerilla strongholds, the reports said, the Japanese have succeeded in routing numerous bandit groups. One report claimed that a body of 1,500 guerillas, part of the forces of General Yen Hsi-shan, operating in southern Shansi near Saniulitsun, was completely routed by two Japanese detachments. More than 600 dead were left lying on the field of battle, the report said.

Still other reports said that 4,000 Chinese in the Chungtiao mountains were attacked simultaneously from east and west. Seven hundred Chinese, it was claimed, were killed during this engagement.—Domei.

Progressives and Third Term

Ex-Governor Murphy Wants "Open Mind" on Question; President Praised

New York, Nov. 12.

Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan, who was defeated in his battle for re-election in last Tuesday's election, today declared he "would rather not say" whether progressive elements of the United States would support President Roosevelt if he sought a third term, "but I think our minds should remain open on the entire question."

Mr. Murphy and Senator Robert J. Bulkley of Ohio, who was defeated for re-election by Mr. Robert A. Taft, Republican, conferred today with Mr. Fiorella La Guardia, Mayor of New York, on the progressive programme in the light of the last election.

"We learn only by adversity, and it might be a good thing," Mr. Murphy declared, commenting on his defeat. "It does not hurt a man in public life to be humbled.

"The practical way" to meet the challenge of a conservative "is to centre the fight around the President's leadership. He is one who has made possible more progressive steps than any other man," Mr. Murphy added.

Mr. Murphy attributed his defeat to dissatisfaction of farmers and residents of small villages suffering from the depression rather than from any repudiation of his policy of handling sit-down strikes.

Mr. Murphy, and possibly Senator Bulkley, will go to Washington, presumably to confer with the President.—United Press.

France's Recovery Programme

Drastic Decrees to Put Country Back on Feet; Three-Year Plan of Work and Reform

Paris, Nov. 13.

IN an effort to further the financial and economic recovery of the country, in regard to which it contemplates a three-year plan, the French Government has issued a series of decrees which M. Reynaud, the Finance Minister, in a broadcast last night, declared are aimed at recreating a prosperous and strong France and constitute the first step on the road to recovery. He added that the financial and economic situation was very grave but good news was that they were certain to overcome it.

The decrees include the following:

A revaluation of the gold stock of the Bank of France at the rate of 170 francs to a pound sterling.

A credit of £570,000 to aid French agriculture.

A 5½-day week for three years.

A special emergency national contribution of two per cent. on all professional incomes.

An increase, by an unstated amount of rates of income-tax.

Abolition of the French national lottery as from January 1, 1940.

Readjustment of certain indirect taxes, including those on coffee, petrol, sugar, tobacco and wine.

Stricter watch to be kept on foreigners in France, and imposition of restrictions on the acquisition of French nationality.

The revaluation of the Bank of France's gold reserve at 170 francs will yield a profit of about £170,000,000 Gold is at present valued at about 110 francs to a pound.

In regard to the decree providing help for French agriculture, it stipulates that an appropriation to special accounts of 100,000,000 francs, repayable in 10 years, should be devoted to agriculture at home and in the Colonies by way of bonuses, subsidies or loans. Agricultural production, it adds, should be rationalised by agreements to be reached between the parties concerned.

The decree providing for the working of a 5½-day week for a period of three years says that the principle of the 40-hour week will be retained. Each employer is entitled to employ workers up to 50 hours a week. Further extensions of hours are subject to approval by the Ministry of Labour.

Penalties For Workers

Increased wages will be paid for extra hours, and a special 10 per cent. tax will be imposed on the extra profits of employers. Workers refusing to work extra hours in national defence works will be dismissed immediately and be debarred for six months from receiving unemployment pay.

Increases in the securities and stamp duties, and a raise in the wages tax from 6.56 to eight per cent. are provided in other decrees.

The inland letter rate is raised from 65 to 90 centimes, and the rate for telephone calls from 65 to 85 centimes.

The total taxes to be paid by any taxpayer will in no case exceed 40 per cent. on his income.

In regard to the position of foreigners in France, it is stated that the watch on frontiers will be tightened.—Reuter.

Transport Facilities Co-ordinated

Paris, Nov. 12.

A special decree issued here today combines all legal measures upon the co-ordination of rail, road and water communication facilities in France.

It foresees an unavoidable delay before the transport routes in the Paris region may be co-ordinated into a single organ. It gives the railways a monopoly of State goods transportation in the departments and districts where extra State expenditure will not be involved.

The Ministry of Public Works, it is further provided, will be able to deal directly with co-operatives for the financing of projects to extend communication lines over the Vosges Mountains. It is noted, however, that to date there has been no measure exacting the licensing of railway workers.

Unanimous approval of M. Reynaud's scheme for national economic and financial recovery, was voiced this afternoon at the Cabinet meeting under the chairmanship of President Albert Lebrun which followed immediately upon a conference of the Ministers only. As anticipated, the Government's decrees aiming to promote the looked-for recovery are inspired by traditional liberal principles.

Opposition Expected

M. Reynaud's will face strong opposition from the Socialists and Communists and even some Radical Socialists, observers here stated tonight. Such opposition was expected because, it was pointed out, M. Reynaud's scheme provides for heavy taxation which will affect all classes of people.

The measure providing for an exceptional two per cent. tax on all professional revenues and salaries, it is anticipated, will prove the greatest stumbling-block. The Leftist parties are expected to voice their opposition in declaring that the envisaged recovery will be carried out chiefly at the expense of the working classes. —Havas.

Control of Foreigners

Paris, Nov. 12.

The Home Minister, M. Albert Sarraut, signed a special decree today enforcing the control of all foreigners resident in France.

A special brigade of gendarmes to patrol the borders will number 1,500 men and will make it practically impossible for anyone to enter the country by other than the legal routes. Special police will also control the actual departure of expelled foreigners, the decree also provides.

Finally, naturalisation procedure will be beset with more strict rules than to date, and naturalized foreigners will be granted voting rights only five years after they have assumed French nationality.—Havas.

Chinese Actors Arrive In San Francisco

San Francisco, Nov. 12.

China's troupe of touring actors and actresses arrived here today after a series of successful appearances in Los Angeles. The troupe, which is guided by Mrs. Ernest Tong, will present performances in the Great China Theatre here next Thursday and Friday.

The group of Chinese amateur musicians and dancers are touring the United States to raise funds for civilian relief in China. They were accorded a highly enthusiastic reception in Los Angeles.—United Press.

Finance Minister Explains Action

Plain Truth of Situation Outlined to Nation; Need For New Decrees

Paris, Nov. 12.

"France's real trouble is her poverty," M. Reynaud declared this evening in the course of his awaited radio address, when he presented a frank picture of the national economic situation.

It was his intention to establish France's balance sheet "so that all Frenchmen might know the truth however grave it was, deriving from truth the courage to fight and overcome all difficulties," he added.

Recalling that during the past eight years, France has suffered from economic crises, M. Reynaud declared that French production was at present in the last place as compared to that of other great powers.

He then enumerated the various signs of a slackening of French economic activity; the decrease in production of iron, the decline in the number of railway-carriage loads transported, the 40,000 more unemployed as compared to last year's figures, the 50 per cent. fall in building industry figures for the past nine years as compared to the 60 per cent. increase in Germany, and the smaller size of the French merchant marine, which is now eighth instead of fifth greatest in the world.

Living on Capital

"France is exhausting her reserves and is living on her capital," M. Reynaud asserted. "Besides, France, like the others, is suffering from armaments illness." But, the Finance Minister announced, "I cannot refuse the Defence Ministries 25,000,000,000 francs for the manufacture of new arms in the next few years."

Explaining his financial scheme for national recovery, he said that he definitely rejected any idea of the Government borrowing funds as this was likely to lead to economic and financial and monetary catastrophe. He recalled in this connection the depreciation of the Reich's mark, which, he said, was the real cause of the Weimar Republic's troubles.

Dealing with the guiding principles of his plan, he said that the dignity of every Frenchman rested in his liberty.

"Economic liberty is an essential condition of political liberty," he added. "We are living under a capitalist regime and France is unable to indulge in a changing of regime with Europe as it is today. Therefore, we must obey capitalistic laws which entail individual risks, freedom of markets and the stimulus of competition."

Exchange Control Impossible

M. Reynaud then explained that exchange control could never be successfully applied in France because of her colonial empire. If applied, it would result in increased prices, he pointed out. Therefore his plan aimed to promote instead a more liberal regime as regards prices, credit and labour.

The Finance Minister emphasized that the Government had to date refrained from taking any measures for the compulsory conversion of Rentes. He explained his fiscal measures in stating that the increase on indirect taxes would mean an average of only 25 centimes per consumer in extra daily tax payments.

He reaffirmed his determination to ensure the final return to France of all capital abroad and expressed his conviction in the success of such efforts.

Towards the end of his address, M. Reynaud deals with generalities. "If France wishes to recover," he asserted, "our production must be increased by 30 or 40 per cent. Working hours must be lengthened for even if all the unemployed were to be put back to work, production on the present basis of working-hours would be increased by only about seven per cent.

"Before those abroad who are listening to me, I tell you that the French week with two Sundays (five-day working week), ceased to exist."

M. Reynaud then commented upon measures modifying the application of the Forty-Hour Week Law, but gave no new explanations. He revealed that the new decrees of the Government would be enforced for three years, because it is impossible to heal in eight days a country that has suffered from economic crises for eight years."—Havas.

Pres. Lebrun Praises Spirit of Army

Financial Situation Needs Sacrifices

Paris, Nov. 13.

A warm testimony to the spirit of the Army and the unity of French colonies was uttered by President Lebrun in a speech at a banquet last evening. The President praised the discipline with which the recent partial mobilization had been carried out, and said that, if necessary, the Army would again be capable of dealing with all eventualities.

"There are, however," he declared, "weaknesses in our armour. Our financial situation is such as to demand sacrifices."

In a speech on the same occasion M. Daladier, the Premier, appealed for the end of all civil discord, because the peace they wanted demanded as much moral force as war itself and required a productive effort which France had far from attained.

From 1929 to 1937, he declared, national production had increased 17 per cent. in Germany, 24 per cent. in Britain, and 30 to 50 per cent. in the Scandinavian countries, while it had decreased in France by 25 per cent. "Such a situation," he added, "cannot be allowed to last. It would endanger the independence and existence of the country. The hour has come for all Frenchmen to cooperate in recovery by money and work."—Reuter.

Communications Magnate Dies

Mr. C. H. Mackay, Head of American System, Passes at Age of 64; Completed First Pacific Cable

New York, Nov. 12.

MR. Clarence Hungerford Mackay, 64 years old, chairman of the board of the Postal Telegraph Corporation and president of the Commercial Cable-Postal Telegraph System, died here late tonight. Mr. Mackay, who has been ill for an extended time, was taken from his Harbor Hill summer estate at Roslyn, L.I. to New York on Tuesday. His health had been failing since spring, and twice last summer he took treatments in a New York hospital for a throat ailment and a tooth infection.

Big business man, sportsman, patron of the arts, aviation enthusiast and philanthropist, Mr. Mackay's career was as diversified as his background was romantic. He possessed one of the most versatile personalities in American public life.

Born in San Francisco April 17, 1874, Mr. Mackay was educated and spent most of his early years in England and France. His father was Mr. John W. Mackay, one of the picturesque characters in American history, who came to this country as a poor boy from Ireland and became one of the empire builders of the Far West by his discovery of the famous Bonanza ore body, the richest deposit of silver found up to that time. Later he entered the electrical communications field by laying cables across the Atlantic in competition with the powerful group headed by Mr. Jay Gould.

Mr. Mackay's mother, Mrs. Marie Louis (Hungerford-Bryant) Mackay, was noted chiefly in London and Paris as a patron of the arts and for the magnificence of her entertainments. Mr. Mackay inherited chiefly his father's energy, foresight and business capacity, while his love for music reflected the maternal influence.

First Pacific Cable

Returning to the United States after graduating from Beaumont College, England, in 1892, Mr. Mackay entered his father's office and became president of the American Forcite Powder Company. On the death of the elder Mackay, in 1902, he assumed the presidency of the Mackay System of telegraphs and cables.

His first contribution to the world of electrical communications was the completion of the first trans-Pacific cable between the United States and the Far East in 1904. In 1907 the first cable between New York and Cuba was put into service.

During the same period, the Mackay system consolidated its position in the Atlantic by contracts with the German Cable Co., operating between New York and Emden, and by laying two additional cables, one connecting with the Azores and serving southern Europe, the other linking New York and Ireland, serving Great Britain and northern Europe.

Companies Merged

In 1928, negotiations between the Mackay companies and the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. resulted in a merger of the two interests. In the previous year the Mackay companies had acquired operating rights in the Federal Radio Co., thus becoming the first communications service in the world to operate radio, cables and telegraph lines under one management.

In addition to being president and a director of the companies making up the Mackay system, Mr. Mackay also was a director and member of the executive committee of the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. and a director of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York.

Throughout his long business career Mr. Mackay was keenly interested in sports and had more than 60 cups and trophies to his credit. He held several squash championships and also was known as an expert rifle shot. Racing also occupied his attention and for several years the Mackay colors were seen on all the leading eastern race tracks. On the death of his father Mr. Mackay retired from the turf and confined himself to breeding thoroughbreds.

Collector of Armour

Long devoted to art, Mr. Mackay was reputed to have one of the finest private armour collections in the world, as well as an outstanding collection of pictures, tapestries and rugs. He was a trustee of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

In the world of music, Mr. Mackay was a member of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Opera Company and chairman of the board of directors of the Philharmonic-Symphony Society of New York. He was a moving spirit in the organization of the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

The musical strain in the family came to the fore again in 1926 when his daughter, Ellin, married Mr. Irving Berlin, the song writer and again in 1931, when Mr. Mackay married Mrs. Anna Case, the opera singer. His first wife, Katherine Duerr Mackay, whom he married in 1898 and from whom he was separated, died in 1928.—United Press.

Guides, Brownies Compete

Successful Rally Held On Saturday; Jewish Company Victorious

An interested crowd of spectators and an enthusiastic gathering of Guide Companies and Brownie Packs assembled at 2.30 p.m. on Saturday in the grounds of the Cathedral Girls School, for the annual signalling competition and Brownies' rally. The afternoon's programme was carried through with efficiency and keenness in spite of the bitter wind which drove competitors and guests indoors for tea as Miss Fleet very kindly gave permission for the school building to be opened during the afternoon.

The programme began with a march past of all the companies and packs and Lady Phillips, the President, Mrs. A. E. Seddon, the Divisional Commissioner, and Mrs. D. M. Butt, District Commissioner, stood at the saluting base. The Brownies then formed a large circle round the Totem and gave a display of pack ceremony.

This was followed by the 1st, 4th, 5th and 8th Guide Companies who took the field in turn competing at Squad Drill, part of the test for the Signalling Cup. The teams marched on smartly and carried out group signalling of the alphabet A—Z. The second part of the test was for teams of 6 guides, 3 receiving and 3 sending a given message in as quick a time as possible. The message was as follows; "Instruct Guides visiting Jessfield Park Zoo return quickly to Camp. BHWX." Judges of the competition were Company Sergeant Major Gillan, Private F. McCann and Private R. Graham of the Seaforth Highlanders, gave their expert knowledge in judging the guides.

Jewish Company Wins

The timing of the message was an important factor, and the winning team from the 9th Company, who owing to Jewish Custom were unable to complete on Saturday and therefore took the test a few days before, worked with first class speed and accuracy and gained high praise for their fast time of 3 min. 2 sec. The 4th and 5th teams were a close second and worked with an excellent style their respective timing of 7 min. 53 sec. and 7 min. 50 sec being up to standard. The Company's timing was 8.07 min. and the 1st 8.10 minutes but the message was not completed. All the teams are to be congratulated on the smartness of the work and their tidy appearance.

Five Brownie Pack teams formed up for a message carrying race which was part of the test for the Tett Shield. Later, Brownies carried out tests in plaiting, knotting, parcel tying, Union Jack, cleaning shoes, button sewing, hopping, skipping and ball throwing. The judge, Mrs. Daly, was much pleased with the good standard attained by all the competitors specially in parcel tying, plaiting, sewing and the Union Jack. The work was very neat and detail excellent. The Brownie Shield was won by the 3rd Pack, the 7th Pack was a close second, and the 1st Pack "B." Team third. All the teams reached a high level of work and as one of the guests said, "Well done, Brownies."

The handicrafts made during the summer holidays were on display and there was much beautiful work. Thanks were expressed to Lady Mossop. Mrs. L. H. Lawford and Mrs. K. M. Bourne for their kindness in judging the entries, many of which were decorative and very carefully executed. There were numerous entries from the Brownies who sent in neat and original work. The competition proved to be a great success; prizes under the following sections were awarded:

Results

Guides: Knitting, Helga Glass, 8th Company; Needlework, Janet Lifshitz, 9th Company; Dolls, Helen Habecost, 1st Company; Woolwork, Barbara Manley, 3rd Company; Bags, Sadie McMay; 5th Company.

Brownies: Yvonne Kershaw, 1st Pack.

After tea, which was held inside the school, the guests, Guides and Brownies assembled for presentation by Lady Phillips of the prizes. Brownie Shield, Signalling Cup and the Marshall Cup awarded to the 1st Guide Company at the Swimming Gala held on 24th September. The Divisional Commissioner, Mrs. Seddon, said how grateful the Association was to all those who had helped in organising the Rally, especially to the President, Lady Phillips, to the Judges of all the competitions, and to Miss Fleet for her kindness in lending the grounds and for her permission to use the school buildings. The President then gave away the awards and Guides and Brownies showed their thanks with hearty cheers and a basket of chrysanthemums was handed to Lady Phillips.

The parade ended with "Who goes there" sung by the Guides, and the Brownie Song followed by "Taps." Then Miss Emamooden, the District Captain, gave the command, "Dismiss" which brought to a close a happy afternoon for all and a very successful rally.

Eleven Houses Swept By Fire in East

Yangtszepoo Is Scene of Big Afternoon Blaze

It took Yangtszepoo Station firemen more than two hours and a half yesterday afternoon to extinguish a fire raging in a row of Chinese shops and dwelling-houses in Lane 11, Yangtszepoo Road.

An alarm was received at the Station at 1.37 p.m., when the flames had already gained considerable headway. Before they had been subdued, two shops had been gutted, seven other shops and dwellings badly damaged, and two slightly damaged.

No-one was injured at the fire, although the houses concerned all were occupied.

Property Damage At Hankow

75 Per Cent. of Japanese Holdings Destroyed; Only Small Houses Intact

Havoc caused in the Japanese Concession of Hankow in the wake of the Chinese retreat resulted in the destruction of 75 per cent. of the total value of Japanese property in the Yangtze port, Col. Hitoshi Hamada, director of the Press Bureau of the Japanese Expeditionary Force to Central China, told the Shanghai "Nippo" on his return here on Saturday.

According to a survey by the Japanese Consulate-General in Hankow, 45 per cent. of all Japanese owned structures in Hankow were dynamited, Col. Hamada was reported to have said. All valuable property was demolished, leaving intact only small houses.

Third-party nationals, Col. Hamada was said to have continued, reaped huge profits in a "get-rich-quick" scheme under which they entered into contracts with Chinese property owners for the hurried registration of various valuable buildings, which then were marked with foreign insignia so as to prevent the Japanese forces from using them as billets. High fees were exacted from the Chinese by the foreigners who assumed nominal ownership of such properties.

Foreigners in Hankow, Col. Hamada was quoted as saying, gave high praise to the rigid discipline of the Japanese forces which carried out the occupation of the city. Conditions in Hankow, the Japanese officer added, were fast being restored to normal. Chinese street vendors, he was quoted as saying, were already plying their trade on the pavements outside the Japanese Army Press Bureau.

Col. Price Handing Over Command

Full-Dress Ceremony at 9 a.m. Tomorrow

Colonel Charles F.B. Price, commanding officer of the Fourth Regiment, United States Marine Corps, since April 1936, will be given a ceremonial farewell tomorrow morning at the Racecourse at 9 a.m. when, in the presence of the whole Regiment, he formally hands over command of the unit to Col. Joseph C. Fegan. Following this ceremony members of the foreign forces in Shanghai will hold a parade in his honour at 11 a.m. between Chapoo Road and Garden Bridge.

The Marines, for the first time since their arrived in Shanghai in 1927, will wear their blue uniforms at the handing-over parade, this having been suggested as a mark of respect to Col. Price who was popular with all ranks of the Regiment, as well as with members of the American community and foreign forces in the city.

Foreign Salutes

The guards of honour from the foreign forces will be paraded in the order of seniority of the Commanders, determined by the length of time each one has been in Shanghai. Nearest Garden Bridge will be the Fourth Marines band. On its right will be the guard furnished by the Fourth Marines and in order following will be those of the French Forces, British Forces, Italian Forces, Shanghai Volunteer Corps, and the Japanese Naval Landing Party.

On the completion of the rendering of honours by each guard Col. Price will leave by boat for the U.S.T. Chaumont from the Rowing Club jetty and civilians and other friends of the departing Commander are asked to assemble on the grass plot in the vicinity of the Rowing Club jetty at that time.

The Chaumont is scheduled to leave Shanghai on Saturday, November 19. Col. Price, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Price, is leaving to take up an appointment in the United States.

Smallpox Believed to Be Checked

No More Cases in Hongkew Reported

With nearly 10,000 persons vaccinated, it was believed yesterday that the fast-spreading smallpox epidemic has at last been brought under control. No new cases of the dreaded disease, local Japanese papers reported yesterday had been brought to light during the previous 24 hours.

According to the dailies, 1,939 Japanese and 2,265 Chinese were vaccinated on Friday while 2,294 Japanese and 2,315 Chinese were vaccinated on Saturday. Twenty-one foreigners also were vaccinated.

The swift move to stem the epidemic was carried out under the joint direction of the Japanese Consular police and the Residents' Corporation, the papers said.

Several Suspects Fall Into Police Net

Wounded Kiating Official Still Near Death

Police Headquarters and Louza Station detectives continued their search yesterday for the persons implicated in Saturday morning's attempted assassination of Yui Yau-tsang, newly appointed Director of Police at Kiating, and arrested several men having alleged gang connections and being at the same time suspected of complicity in the plot to kill the Kiating official.

Yui, who was a detective in the former Bureau of Public Safety at Kiating before the so-called Reformed Government appointed him chief of the police there, remained under guard in a Settlement hospital yesterday in critical condition. He was shot, on Saturday morning, through the back whilst he was riding in a public rickshaw in Chekiang Road. His assailant was arrested after a chase by Sergeant J. Salisbury and Chinese constables, one of whom wounded him slightly in one leg. Altogether some thirty shots were fired by the gunman and the police.

After the crime, raids were made by Headquarters detectives of the Special Homicide Squad, resulting in the arrest of several men.

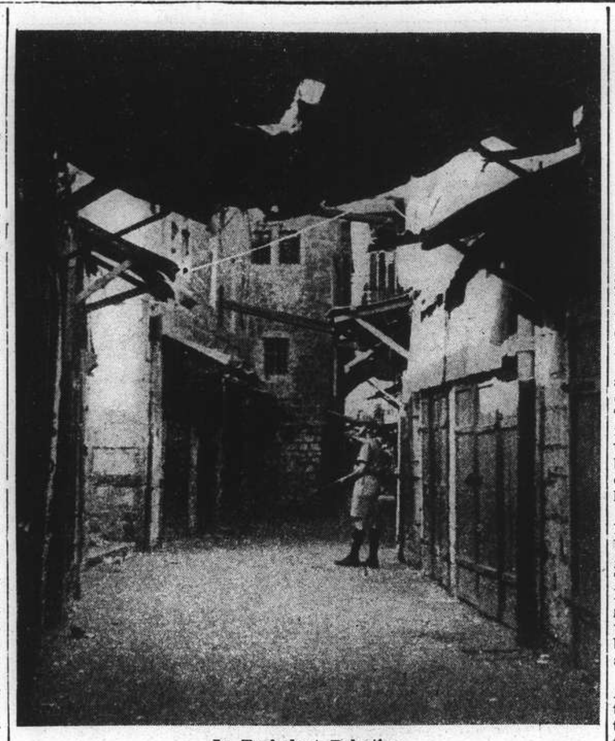
Fourth Marines' Church

"The Disordered Mind of Today" was the theme of a strong sermon by Chaplain R. R. Marken at the Fourth Marines Church in the Metropol Theatre yesterday morning.

Opening the service, the Marine Band played the prelude "A Bunch of Violets" by Bennet and for the Offertory Massanet's lovely "Angelus." A special feature of the service was the rendition of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" from the "Messiah" by a saxophone quartet, Sergeant Sheehan, Privates First Class Feeney, Potter and Private Torbett, all fine musicians of the Marine Band. The singing of the hymns was led by Sergeant Sheehan, with music being provided by the band.

Following the church service, the Fourth Marines' Band ably conducted by Bandmaster Levis E. Giffin, rendered an outstanding programme of concert selections. Included among the numbers was the enchanting "Il Guarany" by Gomez and Lacome's stirring "La Feria." Featured as the soloist on the programme was Private First Class Milton W. Potter, well-known saxophone soloist of the Marine Band, who rendered two difficult arias with band accompaniment, "Carnival of Venice" as arranged by Staigers and the "Third Movement of Concerto for Saxophone" by Gurewich. Appropriately concluding the programme the band rendered the Marines' Hymn and the American National Anthem.



In Turbulent Palestine

Reminiscent of a Shanghai alleyway is this picture from Jerusalem showing a British soldier on patrol in a shuttered and barred street in the Holy City during the curfew which was recently imposed.

In the Russian Colony

By "Stroy"

Though Russian lawyers are not the only ones to take part in cases in the Chinese court, they are of all foreign lawyers perhaps the most informed on the inner workings of Chinese jurisdiction. Especially is this true of those Russian lawyers who arrived here from Harbin and before whose eyes the Chinese Court grew from a meeting-ground where differences between foreigners were settled. (The tradition of the Chinese law has ever been to effect as speedy a compromise between the two disputing parties as possible.) Today dozens of Russian barristers-at-law and solicitors have dealings with the Chinese Court; and though all have their Chinese assistants and interpreters, some address the court directly in the Chinese tongue.

General Adviser

According to time honoured tradition the Russian lawyer not only gives his clients judicial advice, not only officiates at divorces and writes official papers, is not only present at marriages where he sees that the husband-and-wife-to-be sign the marriage contract, but often acts as a trusted adviser to clients by whom he is taken into complete confidence and let into intimate secrets of family or personal difficulties. Also, the Russian Jurists' Society, with Mr. Ch. Metzler as President, Mr. L. V. Arnoldov as Vice-President, Mr. S. P. Dobrovolsky as Honorary Secretary and Mr. N. G. Ratchkoff as Honorary Treasurer, gives consultations free of charge.

Court Fees

Of late the Chinese court, the only court with which the Russian Colony deals, has raised its fees. Formerly to start an action in court for a sum up to $10 required the tax of 45 cents, up to $25—90 cents., from $25 to $50—$2.25, from $50 to $75—$3.30, from $75 to $100—$4.50, from $100 to $200—$9, with an additional tax of $3.00 for every $100 up to the sum of $1,000. From $1,000 to $2,000 the tax comprised $37.50, and soon continuing to rise. New regulations rule that to sue for a sum not more than $25 requires no tax at all. This makes it easier for the petty creditor to defend his rights in court, even enabling servants to sue defaulting employers. Thus the only remaining expense is 90 cents. for the blank. To sue for a sum ranging from $25 to $50 requires a tax of $3, from $50 to $100—$4.50, and from $100 to $1,000—$4.50 for every $100; while for every $100 from $1,000 to $5,000 the tax increases by $3.00 for every $100. For a second hearing in the High Court and Supreme Court taxes are exacted on the same basis, but with a 50 per cent. increase on the taxes paid for the first hearing. On the whole this reform has simplified and clarified the tax question. Furthermore previously, on receiving the necessary papers, one had to make payment according to the number of characters printed on it, which usually resolved into a sum between $1.00 and $6.00. Also on presenting the summons one had to pay 35 cents. if the case was to be heard in the French Concession and 65 cents. if it was to be conducted in the International Settlement. Today the required sum is 20 cents. in the French Concession and 40 cents. outside its boundaries.

Lawyers Foes

The Chinese law does not specify what a lawyer should be paid for his services; it depends wholly on the arrangement of the two parties. The local custom is to pay the lawyer 10 to 20 per cent. on the sum for which the client is sueing. However, a lawyer's brief-case may be full of cases promising substantial payment that in the end give very meagre results. Actions are often of long duration, major cases are purposely made to stretch interminably, and often the lawyer himself files a case as completely hopeless.

Most battles being waged by Russian lawyers now are for the interests of clients living in apartments and rooms. In this respect Mr. N. I. Kolesnitchenko says that the Chinese court has taken a stand in favour of tenants, refusing to make them leave their premises even if they have defaulted on their rent, and will rule a sum of money to the landlord rather than give him the right of ejecting his tenants. If the landlord chooses to cut off light or water, the Chinese court says that he took the law into his own hands and fines him accordingly. On the whole it is at present next to impossible to force tenants to evacuate their premises through action in the Chinese Court in the French Concession.

Anti-Communist Meeting

The polemics in the "North China Daily News" regarding the Anti-Communist meeting in the Astor House has greatly interested the Russian colony. Russian newspapers have devoted it special attention. Never has an English-language newspaper been so eagerly perused and so generally translated. The leading article of November 10 under the title of "White Russians" was read with special satisfaction, and all day long in clubs, in restaurants, in tramways, omnibuses and on streets formed the main topic of discussion.

On November 11 one year passed since the death of Mme M. G. Krylova, the operatic primadonna, who succumbed suddenly to heart failure. The late Mme Krylova was once an artiste in the Imperial Mariynsky Theatre, where she often appeared with Feodor Chaliapin. When that great singer came to Shanghai there was a very pleasant reunion. Mme Krylova came to the Far East in 1924, appeared in Harbin and opened her own studio in Shanghai. Among her pupils in this city were many Chinese singers.

Conclave of Bishops

Archbishop Meleti, who took part in the conclave of Orthodox Bishops in Belgrade, has arrived in Shanghai. Over 100 people participated in this conclave, which took place in the palace of the Patriarch of Serbia. Contrary to reports current at the time, the question of canonizing the late Emperor Nicholas II did not arise, but it was resolved that prayer-meetings to his memory be held everywhere. Prof. V. Pavlovsky of Harbin who when he took to the cloth was made Archimandrite Vasili, has been appointed Bishop to Potsdam (Germany). On his return trip Archbishop Meleti passed through Rome, where he stayed for a week and where he was very warmly met by the Russian colony. In Bari he prayed before the remains of St. Nicholas, who was highly revered in Russia. After that Bishop Meleti spent 12 days in Palestine, where in spite of the unsettled conditions, he was able, due to the vigilant policing of the highways by the authorities, to visit all the holy places in that country. Archbishop Nestor, who after his trip to India spent some time in Malabar, India, the residence of many Hindus of the Orthodox faith, will also shortly arrive in Shanghai. Archbishop Nestor's departure from India on November 13 was necessitated by an illness caused by the unhealthy climate.

Distinguished Soldier

With a career of exceptional interest behind him, Col. N. D. Koltz died in Shanghai on November 10. Born in 1877, Col. Koltz joined the famous choir of Argenev-Slaviansky when yet a boy, and visited many foreign countries. Later he went to Siberia, where he graduated from the Infantry Military School as a lieutenant, and served on the Pamir border. During the Great War he was stationed at the Caucasian front, and on its termination had attained the rank of Colonel. When the Civil War flared up Col. Koltz became the commander of a Kirghiz brigade. After the collapse of the White front he was arrested and senteneed to be shot. From this fate, however, he was rescued by a distant relative. Commissar Kuibyshev, who recently committed suicide in Moscow. Col. Koltz then fled to Persia, traversed it on foot and reached Mesopotamia, from where British authorities sent him to India where other Russian officers and soldiers were interned in a special camp. From there he returned to Valdivostok, and again joined the Civil War. In 1922 he was evacuated with the White Army to Genzan, Korea. His last years in Shanghai were spent as a watchman. During the local hostilities he was trapped in Yangtzepoo, and until a motor boat was sent to rescue him, was forced to stay there for several days without food. The deceased has been survived by his aged wife.

East Surreys Due From Hongkong

Regiment Due Tomorrow Morning; To March to Billets on Wednesday

Shanghailanders will have many an opportunity during future months of listening to the genuine Cockney dialect for, with the arrival of the 2nd. Battalion, The East Surrey Regiment, in the city tomorrow, there comes also a large complement of military Londoners who are serving in the unit.

The East Surreys, whose depot is at Kingston-on-Thames were scheduled to relieve the 1st. Battalion, The Durham Light Infantry following the latter's departure for Tientsin. They were, however, disembarked from the troopship Lancashire at Singapore during the height of the European crisis.

Later the Battalion proceeded to Hongkong from where they disembarked for Shanghai to take up regular duties in their normal station. They will relieve the Seaforth Highlanders of many of their present guard duties along the perimeter and will occupy the former Durham's billets on Great Western Road and at Jessfield Park.

Commanded by Lieut. Col. E.L.L. Acton the East Surreys, were stationed at Colchester, Essex, prior to their departure from Southampton for the Far East. Like the Middlesex Regiment, whose depot is at Hounslow, and the Royal Fusiliers, the Regiment attracts most of its recruits from the Metropolitan areas, the majority hailing from the real Cockney centres such as Bow, Stepney, Lambeth and areas around.

It is expected that the advance party from the Battalion will disembark tomorrow morning and the rest of the Battalion will march to their billets on Wednesday morning.

Burglars Take Silver From Race Club

Settlement detectives yesterday continued their search for the burglar or burglars who entered the jockeys' dressing rooms on the ground floor of the Shanghai Race Club on Friday night and stole a quantity of silverware. Various persons have been questioned by the investigators.

Tsingtao Maru Arrival Delayed

The D.K.K. steamer Tsingtao Maru scheduled originally to arrive here yesterday afternoon has been delayed by strong wind at Tsingtao and she is now expected to arrive here this morning at about 11 o'clock. Her sailing from Shanghai remains unchanged.

EYE STRAIN OF YOUTH RELIEVED BY STATIC REFRACTION

Although the science of ophthalmology has made considerable progress and has furnished valuable relief to suffering humanity yet the scientific fruit has not been achieved as medical knowledge has seldom been applied by most of the optical companies in China. Youths fail to discover their Myopia, Hypertropia, or Astigmatism because of their accommodations. Thousands are still suffering from headache or various nervous and annoying symptoms caused by inaccurate examinations or improper corrections. Those who obtained their glasses from ordinary optical companies, but failed to improve their vision and relieve these symptoms, must require the cooperative service of ophthalmologists in order to perform this static refraction and treat accordingly. Cycloplegics for paralyzing the accommodation temporarily and disclosing the true static refractions of eyes or Mydriatic for enlarging the pupils to facilitate ophthalmoscopic examinations of fundus and retinoscope should be used with the concurrence of ophthalmologists. In order to fulfill the need of youths, we have arranged with the eye specialists of the Standard Eye Hospital to perform this service free of charge to our customers.

FROM DAY TO DAY

MR. and Mrs. Gordon Morriss and family returned to Shanghai yesterday in the Lloyd Triestino liner mv. Victoria from Europe.

MR. Shigeru Yoshida, Japanese Ambassador to London, will sail on the Chichibu Maru today enroute for Tokyo to receive orders from the Foreign Office. It is believed Mr. Yoshida is slated for a more important post.

LADY Yarrow, widow of the famous inventor, has fallen in love with Eire to such an extent that she has now taken up permanent residence across Channel. Her new home, at Howth, outside Dublin, is called "Journey's End."

THE Reverend W. R. F. Addison has just retired from the Army. He was Senior Chaplain at Bordon, is a V.C., and also has the Order of St. George. He won his V.C. for gallantry at Sanniyat in Mesopotamia. He served in the Army for 23 years in Shanghai, Khartum, Malta and other stations, and was the only "padre" serving to hold the coveted Cross.

GENERAL Chiang Kai-shek, says a message from Hongkong Chinese sources to the "Hwa Mei Chen Pao," will henceforth be responsible for all important national policies and the decisions taken thereon. The government, the message adds, shall devote itself primarily to military affairs, these measures to be supplemented, however, by diplomatic activities. The new Chinese Government policies, the report states, are broad-based upon Generalissimo Chiang's recent manifesto.

AN "offer gold to the State" movement has been started in a number of Tibetan towns, following widespread propaganda campaigns, says a report to the "Sin Wan Pao. Publicity posters have appeared in Tibetan streets, urging the people to contribute to the Government, and explaining the significance of the present war of national resistance. More than $2,000 in national currency, the report adds, has already been collected from the Lamas.

THE new director of religion for the B.B.C., the Rev. J. W. Welch, has done great work during the last few years as Principal of St. John's College, York. That institution is a training college for schoolmasters, and is under the jurisdiction of the Diocese of York, with the Archbishop as chairman of the governing body. Living up to the reputation of the county, the college has always been noted for its choral singing, and Mr. Welch has not much to learn about church music even from the lovely B.B.C. choir.

AIR Chief-Marshal Sir Cyril L. N. Newall, Chief of the Air Staff, is the responsible authority who will examine any "gaps" in our air defences which have been noticed during the recent war crisis. He started life as an officer in the Royal Warwicks, and then went into the Gurkhas in the Indian Army before becoming an airman. Like many air officers, he is of medium height, and rendered distinguished war service. A man of determined resolution and fidelity, he married his wife when she lay ill on a stretcher, and nursed her with devoted attention.

LIEUT-COL. the Hon. Nigel F. Somerest has just been promoted to command the 2nd Battalion, The Gloucestershire Regiment—the old 61st Foot. He is a brother of the present Lord Raglan, and a descendant of the Lord Raglan who was Commander-in-Chief of the British Forces in the Crimea. "The Gloucesters" wear the famous Back Badge earned in Egypt in 1802, when attacked in front and rear, and the rear rank faced about and held back victoriously the French. The regiment is also known as "Old Braggs," after a former colonel of that name. The name "Bragg" is even better known in the Army as that of a game of cards, probably the biggest gamble at cards ever invented. Of the famous Back Badge of the regiment it was written:

"Neither Kings nor Queens
Nor Royal Marines.
But brass before and brass behind.
Never feared a foe of any kind."

BY securing control of Eno's, Mr. Philip Ernest Hill has still further strengthened his hold on the gigantic patent medicine business of this patent medicine business in Britain. He already controls the Beecham combine, Taylor's, Veno's, and a large chain of retail chemists' stores, in addition to many other important enterprises. He has had a spectacular career. Sixteen years ago he was a Cardiff estate agent who had made money out of concrete ships. He came to London and astonished the City by buying Beecham's Pills and Estates for £3,000,000. Then he acquired Olympia for £2,000,000, and Lord Derby's Bootle estate for £1,750,000. He made another fortune by introducing Woolworth's shares and had it not been for the intervention of the Treasury, who banned the export of such a large amount of capital, he would have bought the control of Boot's business from America in 1933 for no less then £7,000,000. Mr. Hill is a big, genial, fresh-complexioned man in the middle fifties, who works tremendously hard and smokes a large number of long, black cigars. Golf and yachting are his hobbies.

Two men whose names are household words in London celebrated their 81st birthday recently. They are Will Thorne, M.P., and Alderman Sir George Wyatt Truscott. Though their lives have been devoted to public service, their work has not been on the same field of activity. One day stands out in the memory of Sir George Truscott. It is Dec. 21, 1882. That day he was elected to the City Corporation. He has attended every big ceremony in the City since, including the Jubilees of Queen Victoria and George V., and the Coronations of Edward VII., George V., and the present King. Will Thorne has had a hard life. His first job was turning the wheel for a rope spinner for 12 hours a day, and half a crown a week. He walked from Birmingham to London when he was 24, got a job with the South Metropolitan Gas Co., and eight years later saw the birth of the National Union of Gas Workers. He addressed the first Sunday morning meeting, beginning, "Fellow wageslaves!" Within a fortnight the membership was 3,000.

New P. & O. Liner Arrives

Canton Here on Her Maiden Voyage to Far East; Many Modern Features

The P. & O. liner Canton, the latest and finest addition to the fleet of this well-known British company serving Shanghai and the Far East, arrived in Shanghai yesterday afternoon on her maiden voyage bringing a large passenger list and heavy cargo.

In command Captain H.M. Jack, veteran commander of the P. & O. Line, the Canton, which is 17,000 tons, was an impressive picture as she steamed into port which was extraordinarily busy as there were three other large European and Pacific liners at the wharves. Those who saw her arrive agreed that she was outstanding among the international mercantile fleet in harbour. A good many people went down by tender to inspect Shanghai's newest visitor and other parties will be visiting the liner today.

Designed specially for the Far Eastern service, the Canton is 560 feet long and her breadth is 73 feet. She carries 257 first-class passengers and 220 second-class passengers in accommodation designed on the most modern lines, which make her one of the most comfortable vessels afloat. She has six decks and is equipped with the Punkah-Louvre ventilation system, while other features are lifts, a built-in swimming pool, a cinema, shower baths, a close-in nursery and open playing space all tending to the comfort and entertainment of passengers. A surgeon, nursing sisters, a hairdresser and an orchestra are among other services available on the vessel.

Features which make her the last word in passenger accommodation also extend to other aspects of the liner for her holds are air-conditioned to couteract the varying changes of temperature experienced on the voyage via Suez.

The Canton is leaving for Japan tomorrow and will sail for London from Shanghai on December 6.

Czech Presidency Still Undecided

Dr. Chvalkovsky, Foreign Minister, Expected to Be Elected to Post

Prague, Nov. 13.

The Foreign Minister, Dr. Franz Chvalkovsky, will be probably elected President of the Czechoslovakian Republic next week if, in the meantime, an agreement is reached between the Czechs and the Slovaks in the matter of a constitutional law concerning the autonomy of Slovakia.

According to the Czech constitution, the President is elected by Parliament which is convoked by the Premier. The party leaders and Ministers will meet to decide upon one man, probably Dr. Chvalkovsky, before the convocation of the two Chambers.

The Slovaks are not opposing the candidacy of the Foreign Minister, but demand that Parliament, during the same session, grant the claim submitted on October 8 on behalf of all Slovak parties, and request the creation of a regime in Czechoslovakia similar to the minorities regime in the former Austro-Hungarian Empire.

The Slovaks demanded satisfaction before October 28, but uncertainty regarding the frontiers prevented it so far.

Heading to One-party System

Slovak leaders will arrive here tomorrow to confer with the Czech parties and the Government. It is probable that an agreement will be reached and that the Government will convoke Parliament early next week to elect Dr. Chvalkovsky and vote a provisional constitution which will provide a law on Slovakia's autonomy.

In the meantime, the presidential question and the constitutional problem are nearing a settlement, and the state is heading towards a one-party system.

The Czechoslovak Agrarian Republican Party, the Czechoslovak Trades Party, the Social-Nationalist Party, the National Union, and the Czechoslovak People's Catholic Party, have already decided to merge, while the Czechoslovak Social-Democratic Party and the Communist Party have announced their intention to found a "People's Labour Party" representing the Opposition.

It is understood that the Government has decided to dissolve all parties in order to facilitate the creation of one-party for the whole country. —Havas.

Civil War in Chile Averted

Finance Minister Abandons Claims to Presidency

Santiago, Nov. 12.

Averting a possible civil war growing out of the recent election, Sr. Gustavo Ross, Finance Minister, today abandoned all claims to the President to succeed Sr. Arturo Alessandri Palma.

Sr. Ross yielded in favour of Sr. Pedro Aguiree Cerda, the candidate jointly sponsored by Communist, Socialist and Radical parties. Sr Cerda is a member of the Radical party, while Sr. Ross is a Liberal.

Sr. Cerda was declared elected in the elections recently, but followers of Sr. Ross protested that the counting had been illegal and that Sr. Creda's followers had used unfair means of securing votes.—United Press.

More Land Under Cultivation

London, Nov. 13.

According to figures made public by the Ministry of Agriculture, there has been an increase, over the last 12 months, of nearly 1,000 acres in land for the purpose of cultivation of tomatoes, salads and vegetables. Market gardeners have sunk an additional £500,000 of capital in these developments. — Wireless Through Reuter.

League Considering Economies

Committee to Investigate Possible Savings

Geneva, Nov. 13.

The special committee, authorised recently by the Assembly of the League of Nations, will meet in Paris on Tuesday to decide what economies can be made in the League organization.

There is no question at the moment of any political changes in the League or a reform of the Covenant, or a restriction of the League's activities. The committee's task will be to recommend economies.

No sensational decisions are expected, but the committee is likely to recommend the amalgamation of some sections of the League organization in order to do away with a number of posts. After that, M. Joseph Avenol, Secretary-General of the League, will proceed with the reorganization of the League Secretariat.—Reuter.

Hutton and Hammond Quickly Dismissed

M.C.C. Begins Game Against Western Province

SPECIAL TO THE "N.C.D.N."

Capetown, Nov. 13.

Two young South Africans stood out yesterday on the first day of a three-day match between the M.C.C. and western Province.

They were Vanderspuy, a stylish left-hand batsman, who made 31 not out in Western Province's first innings, which realized 174, and Brinkhaus, fast bowler, who claimed the wickets of Hutton and Edrich in quick succession.

The position at the close of play was:

Western Province 174.
M.C.C. 70 for three.

Foley made 37 in 101 minutes for the home side, including four boundaries.

Edrich, bowling fastish and swinging a lot, took four wickets for 10 runs, while Farnes claimed three for 32.

The three Englishmen dismissed were Hutton 14, Edrich 7 and Hammond, who was bowled by Bond, seven. Brinkhaus' present analysis is two for 20.—Reuter.

Anti-Comintern Meeting Won by Italians

Athletic Contests Held At Tung Wen College

An "anti-Comintern athletic meet" in which Japanese, Germans, Italians and Chinese took part was held at 10 o'clock yesterday morning on the grounds of Tung Wen College on Avenue Haig.

Participants included 30 students of the college, 30 bluejackets of the Italian naval landing party, 30 students of the Kaiser Wilhelm School and 30 students of the Reformed Institute, representing Japan, Germany, the Reformed Government and Italy.

The meet was won by the Italians. The Japanese Consul-General, Mr. Shinrokuro Hidaka, German and Italian Consuls-General, leading citizens and primary school children attended the event. More than 300 Italian bluejackets were present.

Students of Tung Wen College gave exhibitions of judo, fencing, archery and wrestling. Before the meet an anti-Comintern statement was issued by the college.—Domei.

Big Christmas Mail Expected

500 Tons Going by Air in Next Five Weeks

London, Nov. 13.

It is estimated that about 500 tons of Christmas mail will be airborne along Empire routes in the next five weeks. Something like 17,000,000 letters are expected to leave Southampton by flying-boat.

To cope with the task Imperial Airways are pressing all available aircraft into service, and several great airliners have had their passenger saloons dismantled to increase their mail carrying capacity.—Wireless through Reuter.

Anti-Jewish Action in Germany Extended

National Socialist party leader in Switzerland. Although Jews throughout the world at once demonstrated their solidarity with the cowardly assassin, the German people on that occasion displayed what must be called admirable patience towards the Jews in Germany and did not exact any retribution. Many people then perhaps believed that this was an individual action which would not be repeated. The shots fired in Paris showed them that this was not the case.

"The Reichs Government's reply, the measures taken by it in the cultural and economic field, show that Germany is determined to protect the life and safety of every single German abroad with all means at its disposal, and the Jews throughout the world should now learn how the German people reacts to such provocations and attacks—and draw their conclusion therefrom."—Trans-Ocean.

Old Testament Attacked

Berlin, Nov. 12.

Herr Julius Streicher, bitter anti-semitic editor of "Der Stuermer," in a speech at Nuremberg today intimated that the Old Testament might be excluded from religious instruction in the schools. "Germany's teachers will cease immediately to recount untrue Jewish hero tales.... will preach Christ's true words," Herr Streicher declared.

Meanwhile, the Nuremberg police ordered that licence numbers of automobiles owned by Jews must all be numbered within a certain specified range.—United Press.

Expulsion of Trotsky Proposed

Mexico City, Nov. 13.

The annual Teachers' Congress here decided today to ask the Government to expel Leon Trotsky from the country.

Well-informed quarters believe that the Government will in all probability reject the request, since Trotsky is living within the laws on foreigners.—Havas.

"Up the River," formerly titled "Hard to Get" is now before the cameras, with Phyllis Brooks and Tony Martin handling the love interest. Preston Foster, Dorothy Dearing, Arthur Treacher and Slim Summerville are in the supporting cast.

Portuguese Gymnasium Opened

New Adjunct Added to The Clube Lusitano

The Portuguese community in general and the Clube Lusitano in particular are to be congratulated upon the opening of the new gymnasium at the club premises at 46 Rue Massenet on Saturday night. A variety entertainment was presented, before a capacity house, in the new premises where exceptional amateur talent made its appearance. An attractive souvenir programme was published for the occasion.

The first part of the evening was devoted to variety proper with turns ranging from instrumental to the "Big Apple," effectively executed by Miss Stella Souza and Mr. E. G. da Silva. Perhaps the most popular item was the harmonisation by Mrs. A. M. Allemao and the Misses Marie and Loretta Allemao where great credit must also be given to the accompanists, Messrs. Allyrio and Braga. One of the outstanding features of the evening was the music and the accompaniments.

The piece de resistance occupied the second part of the programme and was in the shape of a revival of the sketch "Porcus ed Beanus" written by Mr. J. C. de Britto, which skit has been so favourably reviewed in the past. The large cast performed to perfection but particular mention must be made of parts played by the host, Mr. A. S. Braga and the "Nobleman from Nowhere," Dr. D. M. P. Gutterres whilst the gracefulness of the three ladies in the Alice Blue Gowns and the harmonica music of Vagabond Musicians cannot be overlooked. Jerusalem, played by Mrs. J. M. E. Lopes, was a work of art.

The whole evening was an immense success and was thoroughly enjoyed by an appreciative audience.

Last Minute Penalty Goal Wins for Tung Hwa

Lusitano Waste Scoring Chances in First Half; Victors Only Unbeaten Untied Senior Team

CONVERTING a penalty kick in the last two minutes, Tung Hwa subdued Clube Lusitano in a First Division match at the Canidrome yesterday morning before a crowd of about 1,500 to remain the only untied and unbeaten team in the S.F.A. senior league. The victory marked Tung Hwa's third success of the season. Louis Marcal, former A.S.F. fullback, wore the Clube uniform for the first time. His presence was quite a surprise to the spectators, especially the Chinese who thought that Marcal had retired from football.

The team were:—

LUSITANO:—Braga, Marcal, Gonsalves, Victal, Oliveira, Silva, Souza, Costa, J. Rozario, L. Rozario, Remedios.
TUNG HWA:—D. Y. Chow, Y. Z. Chuang, Y. K. Chang, T. W. Ling, M. S. Tsai, Z. Z. Tsiang, S. H. Van, H. T. Sung, L. K. Tai, S. B. Tung, Y. L. Kia

Lusitano Aggressive

The Portuguese had a successful start and, although playing against the wind, kept the ball continually in Tung Hwa's area. The Club halves were well in front, feeding their forwards incessantly. Remedios had a busy time as most of the passes came his way, the Portuguese evidently figuring that the Chinese were weaker on the left. The outside-right swung across a few fine centres but they were all cleared by the defenders, who packed their goal and afforded the opponents no chance to take their time and shoot.

Breaking away, Chia slipped a pass to Tai, who dribbled goalwards and had all opposition beaten. When he was about to test Braga, Gonsalves descended upon him and saved the situation at the expense of a fruitless corner.

A fine looping shot by Silva sailed towards the Chinese goal. Chow caught the ball but allowed it to drop. None of the Portuguese forwards were at the spot and Chang, the fullback, easily cleared.

In the 20th minute Ling, the left-half, put Van up with a strong kick. The ball sailed over Gonsalves with Van chasing after it. Marcal streaked across but, slightly flurried, he made a poor clearance for the ball to go over the touch line. Van made a perfect corner. Tsai, the centre-half, headed the ball which stuck the post. Tai dashed forward and drove a low shot into the net for the opening goal.

Over the Cross Bar

The Portuguese still maintained pressure. Remedios tested Chow with a hard shot. Souza worked his way through and drew Chow away from his charge. Costa drove over the cross-bar to Chow's relief. In one of the raids Chang tripped Souza within the back area and brought the outside-left down to the ground. The referee awarded a penalty to the Clube and Costa made no mistake to tally and tie the score at one-all.

From the next kick-off Tung Hwa carried the ball into Portuguese territory and remained there most of the time. The Portuguese halves seemed to have faded out and Costa moved back to help the defence. Van missed an easy shot. He drove a few feet wide. Then China threw away an opportunity when he banged the ball straight to Braga with only the keeper to beat. Marcal then saved a "certain" goal before the half ended.

Play deteriorated upon the resumption. Nevertheless, exciting moments were not lacking. Poor shooting by the Portuguese vanmen caused the Chinese goal to be kept intact. Costa was the last to throw away a great chance. He drove high when well placed in front of Chow.

For Tung Hwa, Tung hooked the ball over the cross-bar by a scant foot or two in an attack in which Braga collided with Marcal and left the goal unattended. In the middle of the period Tai sent a pile-driver against the upright. Tung followed up but shot weakly for Braga to clear.

The battle proceeded evenly. Both sides failed to make headway and seemed to be content with the draw. Unfortunately, Marcal hurt his elbow and inter-changed with Souza. The latter was penalized for handling in the 43rd minute within the dreaded area. Tai scored with a strong kick and the battle was won.

Notre Dame March Over Minnesoto

Trojans Bog Down Under Washington Defence: All U.S. Football Scores

New York, Nov. 12.

Shades of the brilliant Knute Rockne, one of America's most-beloved football coaches, settled over the campus at South Bend tonight as one of the greatest Notre Dame grid teams in recent history continued its undefeated march toward the national championship by clubbing down Minnesota, 19-0 in the feature classic of the day.

It provided a fitting climax for the "Fighting Irish," who went through their early season schedule undefeated, watching the Golden Gophers, the Pittsburg Panthers and the California Golden Bears grabbing all the headlines while sports writers continued to ignore the feats of the Notre Dame boys.

Today, however, the "Ramblers" from South Bend not only defeated the Gophers—they practically annihilated them. From the opening whistle to the gun-shot that ended 60 minutes of bitter playing, the Notre Dame eleven marched over, around and above a bewildered Minnesota eleven.

Irish Cross the Line

Three times the Irish crossed the last white marker, and though they converted only once, the joyous, victory-mad Notre Dame rooters cared little for those extra points. All they wanted was a win, whether by 50 points or one point, for sports experts had predicted that Minnesota angered by the unexpected 6-3 defeat inflicted by Northwestern—might thrust aside the lighter but trickier Notre Dame squad. That would have spoiled South Bend's dream of a national championship.

Today's victory not only established the Irish as the leading undefeated, united team in the country, but definitely showed that Minnesota—for years the top team in the country—is definitely on the downgrade. Two defeats last year, one by Nebraska and the other a 7-6 heart-breaking loss to this same Notre Dame team, coupled with the two losses of the 1938 season have proved that the men o' Bernie Bierman are not invincible.

In the Far West, mighty Southern California, with its record unblemished save for an early-season 19-7 loss to Alabama, hit a cropped against the University of Washington when the Huskies from the north pounded out a 7-6 win over their traditional rivals.

As Thousands Cheer

While thousands of spectators cheered the War Horse on toward the Rose Bowl, following their victory over California last week, the Trojans bogged down under the brilliant Washington defence that so far this year has been lacking. Touted as one of the finest elevens on the coast, Jimmy Phelan's men tumbled to the bottom of the conference ladder, and then started back the head way—by defeating the West's outstanding eleven. Both teams crossed the goal line for tallies, but Fullback Al Cruver's trusty toe sent the pigskin spinning between the cross-bars to give the northerners a one-point lead which they held despite all fury that Jones men could muster.

Southern California's loss drew the Trojans and the California Bears into a two-way tie for the conference championship. It left Santa Clara as the only major undefeated, untied eleven on the coast—and so far the Rose Bowl moguls have refused to permit teams outside the confernece to represent the West.

Pittsburgh Pushes On

In the Southwestern Conference Texas Christian continued its streak of wins, bowling over Texas, 28-6 to establish itself as one of the outstanding teams of the country. Duke University, the East's representative in this select circle continued its march, downing Syracuse, 21-0.

Pittsburgh, not a bit disheartened by its 20-10 loss to Carnegie Tech last week, smothered Nebraska, 19-0 to gain back a certain measure of their former confidence. Carnegie Tech, undefeated except for a close 7-0 decision dropped to Notre Dame, went on the rampage to smother its little intra-state rival, Duquesne, 21-0.

American Girls Win At Last in Manila

Game's Only Run Forced Across by Male Pitcher

Manila, Nov. 12.

The American Girls All Star Softball team won its first victory in three starts against the best of Manila's softball teams when it eked out a thrilling 1-0 win over Johnson-Pickett Rope Company.

Reyes, pitcher for the Johnson-Pickett squad hurled a no-hit game, but lost the contest when his control went haywire, and the American Girls took advantage of a series of three passes to fill the bases. Reyes, still unable to control the ball, walked another batter, forcing a run across home plate—a run which eventually proved to be the winning margin.

Johnson-Pickett played air-tight ball throughout, with not a single man on the team making an error.

The Hollywood All Stars played a clearer game in field than last night when they lost to the U.S. Army team, 11-6, after making six errors. The girls from America committed but two blunders, but were virtually helpless at the plate, seemingly unable to solve the wierd assortment of curves and twists tossed at them by Reyes.

In the opening game at Rizal Memorial stadium, Columbia Pictures annihilated the 16th Naval District, 11 to 2. Columbia Pictures garnered 11 hits while making two miscues, while the sailors clubbed out five hits for two runs, and at the same time having five errors counted against them.—United Press.

Shanghai Hockey League Opens

Highlanders Hold United To Draw in Fast Contest At Race Course

League hockey made an auspicious start when the Seaforth Highlanders held the United Hockey Club to a tie of 2-all at the Race Course in the opening game of the 1938-39 season. The absence of three United players, Oliveira, Karanjia and J. C. Fonseca was keenly felt for the team had a depleted forward line.

In the first half the civilians had the better of the play. Many times they carried the ball within the circle. Weak support from the wing position caused all their efforts to go astray.

Waldman, a noted Jewish star from Germany, filled the inside-left berth and was the spearhead of attack. In the 5th minute he weaved through three defenders to place Murray in position. But the latter put up a disappointing show by flicking the ball weakly for Wilson to stop at the expense of a corner. Veir executed for Kermani to rifle past the post.

The United forwards kept on the pressure and showed no signs of discouragement. Tony Fonseca was instrumental in keeping the front line active. Waldman and Kermani worked neatly together to send Murray through. The latter again shot feebly for one of the defenders to save at the expense of another corner. Waldman misflicked the ball when he was unmarked within ten yards of the goal to see another chance go begging.

Into the Net

In the 10th minute the combination of Waldman and Kermani bore fruit when the latter outpaced the Seaforth backs and directed a quick shot at Wilson. The ball boomed into the net and the United took a one-goal lead.

Veir on the right wing was very free. Twice he cut in but was given only one chance to shoot. In the 25th minute the soldiers equalized. A fine move on the right enabled Davis to gain possession of the ball. As he pushed the ball into the circle he found that there was an opening for a shot. He fired and the ball bounced between Jones's legs into the net.

After the interval the Scottish team became active and outrallied the United side in the first five minutes. Thanks to the valuable services of Sortie Collaco, the Seaforth forwards were held at bay. Collaco was unfortunately penalized in an effort to clear and a corner was given. Thomson, left-half, received McDonald's pass and beat Jones with a fast grounder.

A short while later Bojesen missed an opportunity to equalize. Kermani carried the ball towards the right. After having drawn the soldiers' backs out of their positions, he crossed over for the outside left to make the final touch. Due to over-anxiousness, Bojesen misjudged the flight of the ball and allowed it to bounce away for Capt. Richie to clear within ten yards of the goal. McDonald had a shot immediately afterwards which was saved by Jones for a corner.

It was not untill the 30th minute that the next goal was scored by Kermani, who again dazzled through on his own and beat Wilson with a scorching drive.

Minor Matches

Two Second Division games were played off yesterday. At the Race Course the S. M. Police drew with the Area Details at 4-all while at Kiaochow Park the Shanghai Hockey Club "C" vanquished the German Hockey Club "B" by 6-2.

The friendly game between the Shanghai "A" and the German "A" resulted in a victory for the former. Capt. Cole tallied the only goal in the contest which marked the second victory over the Teutons this season.

Bluejackets Battle Marines Tonight

Both Camps Confident of Victory; Navy Slightly Favoured to Win Cup

Tonight is the night on which the pick of the Fourth Marines and the best talent in the U.S. Asiatic Fleet will meet in the squared arena of the Canidrome to fight for the glory of their respective units and for the sheer joy of a good battle, and local boxing enthusiasts are well aware of the sort of action that such motives have produced in previous Walla Walla cards. This is indicated by the fact that nearly all seats have been sold already, for this Navy Relief Smoker.

A tremendous crowd is expected to be on hand when the gong sounds to begin the first bout at 8.30 p.m., and before the last curtain falls, eight battles will have been fought between the Marine Corps and the Navy, traditional arch-rivals.

The first five bouts will consist of four two-minute round and owing to the closeness of the matching it seems likely that the possession of the Walla Cup will hinge on the final three bouts each consisting of six two-minute rounds.

Both camps are confident of victory and their boxers have been training hard for weeks in preparation for tonight. On paper the Navy appears to have a slight advantage with such dependable men as Chick Jarboe, Harry Groll and Slippery Elam studding their list of fighters. But Church Haines, Duke de Stefano etc. give away nothing.

A.S.F. Beaten Easily By Inspired Recs

Penalty Re-Taken Three Times as Goalie Moves

The A.S.F. were beaten again yesterday when they went down before the onslaught of the Recs to the tune of 7 goals to 2.

The A.S.F. team never seemed to find their feet and the play was very one-sided. From the very start the Recs took up the offensive and kept hammering away at their opponents' goal and through combined passing movements kept the French team always on the defence.

There were two penalties taken during the match, one against either side. That taken by the Recs had to be re-taken three times before the referee was satisfied as each time the ball was kicked the French goalkeeper moved before the actual moment the ball was touched.

Favacho and Markitant between them kept the attack up for a long while until Markitant managed to get the ball into the goal. Aldeguar was the next to help in the attack and a beautiful pass over to Favacho left the latter with an open goal.

Burenin and Markitant between them accounted for the remainder of the score. In the second half the A.S.F. team seemed to have lost all heart and could not make any effort realy worthy of note.

As in their game last Sunday with the S.F.X. they seemed to have lost all their confidence and spirit.

Free Fight on Soccer Field

Italian Soldiers, Seaforths Battle Following Ugly Incidents; Referee Attacked, Injured

UGLY incidents followed by a free fight, in which members of the Savoia Grenadiers, The Seaforth Highlanders and members of the general public were injured, marred two of yesterday's football games at the Racecourse. The games concerned in the incidents were those between the Seaforths and the Savoia in a Reserve Division encounter and the S.F.X. and Savoia, First Division. As a result of the brawl Mr. A. G. Carnell, refereeing the Reserve Division game, and Lance-Corporal Smellie of the Seaforths received treatment for multiple wounds, the soldier having sustained a stab injury in the back.

The Seaforths and Savoia match, which was abandoned, had been marked by rough play during most of the game. Towards the final stages of the encounter, at which time the Seaforths were leading 3-1, Mr. Carnell, had occasion to warn Sabatini for rough play and for questioning decisions.

Kicked on The Head

Shortly afterwards, as this player was taking a "throw-in," he was cautioned again by the referee, and instead of disposing of the ball, he rushed at Mr. Carnell who, in defending himself, knocked the Italian player to the ground. Holding Sabatini on the ground Mr. Carnell called for assistance and, while doing so, was kicked on the head. This opened a nasty cut on the referee's head.

This was a signal for a general melee and, grabbing hold of some corner flags, the Italians invaded the field of play, Mr. Carnell being struck several times by these weapons about the head and body. Seaforth players and spectators then rushed to the referee's assistance and it was during this period that Lance-Corporal Smellie received his wound.

Meanwhile more Grenadiers arrived from ground number 2 where the First Division game was in progress to join in the fight, but the action of some Seaforth N.C.O.s and men, who escorted Mr. Carnell to the Mohawk Road medical inspection room, saved him from further punishment and the affray finished with the match being abandoned.

Two Italians Sent Off

The game between the Savoia Grenadiers and the S.F.X. was marred also by incidents, which, however, were not as serious as in the Reserve Division game. Ten minutes from the end, at which time the S.F.X. were leading 4-1, Mr. Hill, the referee sent off Carenza, the Grenadiers' centre forward. This was followed by protests from the Italian players, culminating in the sending-off of Tarrico the Grenadiers' centre-half. Shortly after this, two more Italian players walked off the field.

At the end of the game, which was won by the S.F.X., Mr. Hill was escorted to the Recreation Club pavilion, following which Italian soldiers attempted to enter.

The "North-China Daily News" was informed yesterday evening that Mr. Carnell had been taken to the Country Hospital where his injuries were treated. He was not detained there, but it is expected that he will have to stay in bed for several days.

Probables Rout Possibles

Victorious Rugger Pack Blots Out Opposition; Rigg, Kennedy, Reynold, Tay, Outstanding

DOMINATING three parts of the game with their superior tactics the Probables forwards effectively blotted out the Possibles' pack in a trial match held at the Race Course yesterday afternoon for the purpose of selecting the 1st XV and consequently the backs of the Possibles saw so little of the ball that they had very little chance to exploit their abilities. The game as a whole, did not reach a high standard, and the many fine passing movements that were expected from the Probables' threes failed to materialize. These threes had chances galore but poor handling at the critical moment and faulty positioning told their tale and the final score which read 21-0 in favour of the Probables, should easily have been doubled.

De Beaumont and A. S. Read did not put in an appearance and with these two players out of the Possibles side, the team was considerably weakened from the start. Basset, who replaced Brown at scrum-half, did quite well, but was inclined to be erratic, his passing from the base of the scrum not being as accurate as it could have been.

The Possibles forwards worked hard throughout the game but apart from the first fifteen minutes were rarely in the picture being shoved all over the field by a pack which was much heavier man for man.

Rigg, the Probables full-back, was the most outstanding player on the field, his kicking, positioning and catching being excellent. He was never caught on the wrong foot and was often observed coming up to assist his threes in the attack, a fact that was not taken full advantage of by his team-mates when in useful scoring positions.

The Probables' threes can definitely do better and most certainly will have to do so in future games if strong representative sides are to be defeated. The forwards had the ball back time after time and with the Possibles' defence spreadeagled on many occasions there should have been no difficulty in recording a cricket score, but the threes did not take advantage of the chances offered, knock-ons, forward passes and too much kicking being far too prevalent.

On the other hand, too much praise cannot be given the forwards. They all shined, with Reynolds, Kennedy and Tay being the best of a fine pack.

PROBABLES:—W. H. B. Rigg; I. M. Hutchison, R. H. Roe, I. M. Aucott, J. W. M. Martin; A. G. White, L. R. St. Louis; W. D. Pearson, R. A. Reynolds, R. A. O. Mayne, I. H. Bradford, G. G. Brown, P. B. Tay, F. R. Burch and A. M. Kennedy.

POSSIBLES:—W. P. Hetherington; P. J. A. Innes, G. M. Mills, G. C. Williams, C. Guignard; A. P. D. Kennedy, T. R. Basset; D. M. Wheeler, G. A. Yanus, F. W. Dunhill, R. Monnot, W. J. Richmond, A. L. A. Bonbernard, J. March and J. R. M. Warner.

Referee: Mr. G. D. Nicholl.

Rigg's Excellent Kicking

The first ten minutes of the game saw the ball constantly travelling backwards and forwards and neither side was able to secure any decided advantage, although White missed a good opportunity of going through when about ten yards from the line when he dropped a perfect pass. Rigg showed up well right from the beginning with his excellent kicking, catching and tackling.

After twelve minutes Roe secured from Aucott after a short passing movement and went over near the posts for the first try. Rigg converted.

Play was then transferred to the other end and Monnot had hard luck in not going over after a fine run, being pulled down by Rigg when just short of the line. Immediately after, the Frenchman narrowly missed converting a penalty for a technical infringement.

After being on the attack for a solid five minutes, the Possibles were driven back to the half-way line, their efforts having come to nil. The interval arrived with the Probables leading by a goal to nothing.

St. Louis, who was very erratic in the first session, changed with Basset after the resumption and was thereafter seen working the scrum for the Possibles.

Brilliant Solo Dash

The second half was a complete rout. In the first minute, Martin was almost through but was pulled down in possession when he could have easily let the ball out to Rigg, who was unmarked and only two yards from the line. Three minutes later Aucott made a brilliant solo dash of forty yards after picking up from the loose and looked like tallying but Guignard brought him down near the posts with a heavy tackle that was eventually responsible for Aucott going off the field suffering from concussion.

A few minutes' midfield play ensued and then Roe picked up from a maul and after selling a dummy handed over to Tay, who had taken Aucott's place in the threes, and there was no difficulty in his going over for the second try which was not converted.

Midway through the second half Martin picked up a very difficult, low pass ten yards inside his own half and swerving and dodging his way through, a bunch of defenders, feigned as if to pass to Rigg who was backing up, thus catching the Possibles on the wrong foot, making it extremely easy for him to cut in and touch down under the posts. Rigg added the extra points. Ten minutes from the end White duplicated Martin's performance whilst almost on time Roe burst through after a short run. Both the latter tries were converted by Rigg, to make the final score read four goals and a try to nil.

Footrushes Feature Rugby Match

Club, Seaforths Combine To Trounce Police Team; S.M.P. Pack Improves

In a game that was characterized by footrushes and very little successful handling, a combined Club and Seaforths Rugby XV defeated a greatly improved Police side by two tries to nil at the Race Course yesterday afternoon. The play never reached great heights and although the players of both sides were full of enthusiasm, their efforts invariably came to naught, lack of knowledge of the finer points spoiling many a promising movement.

The Police forwards have obviously been putting in a great deal of practice for they were able to hold their own throughout the game with a more than useful pack and it was only due to misunderstanding in the defence that the Combined XV were able to emerge as victors.

Cockburn showed up very well in the threes and is quickly learning the game and with his speed and powerful tackling is more than likely to prove himself of great use before the end of the year. McFarlane also showed up well, his kicking and general all round play being most encouraging. Hocking, who took over the unaccustomed duties of scrum-half, was a distinct success in this new position and may well prove to be the connecting link between the Police forwards and backs.

The Police forwards have always been up to average but when it comes to getting the ball back there invariably appears to be a stoppage, and it is quite on the cards that Hocking will repair this important deficiency.

The first half saw both teams striving hard to cross their opponents' line, but all attempts came to nil. Midfield play predominated in which the two sides indulged in a great deal of footrushing movements but the defences held out until the breather.

The second session saw the Combined XV making strenuous efforts to break through and eventually the Police line fell twice, neither try, however, being converted. Rainey, of the Seaforths, played a most impressive game and it would come as no surprise to see him included in senior teams before long.

POLICE:—L. Killingbeck; F. Bader, L. Cockburn, J. McFarlane and C. J. Fallace; L. R. Hocking, J. Hartley; T. Dearn, L. Reynolds, C. Roberts, A. Kilock, H. Edgar, T. Gammie, P. Buxton, H. Duffy.

Details Defeat Club In Scrappy Game

Strength of Forwards Deciding Factor

In a scrappy rugger game at the Race Course yesterday afternoon the Area Details defeated a Club XV by a dropped goal and two tries to a try, 10-3. Play throughout never reached a high level, the only good orthodox handling movements coming from the Club, but they never materialized into points. The soldiers had a far better pack and managed to secure the ball almost at will and it was this superiority in the forwards that eventually put paid to the Club's chances. As the game progressed the Details improved a great deal but good tackling and kicking by Chadwick, the Club's fullback, prevented any heavy scoring.

The game began with the Club three men short and the soldiers, quick to take advantage of this, were soon on the attack. Bad fumbling, however, on the part of the threes lost several opportunities. Ten minutes after the start, a Details' footrush saw the ball taken well into the Club 25, where, from a loose scrum Wilmot gathered and slung back to Hamlin who dropped an excellent goal from twenty yards. Five minutes later, following another footrush, Evans secured a wide pass made by Laird and went over near the corner flag. The kick for the extra points failed. The soldiers narrowly missed going further ahead immediately after when Woods kicked ahead and was only just beaten to the ball by Chadwick who touched down in goal to prevent any further damage.

The second half was much more even and the Club, now fielding fifteen men, had ample chance to redeem themselves, but the inability of the threes to gather the ball at the correct moment spelled disaster on several occasions. Midway through the second half after a footrush, Hall, well up with the ball, took it over the line and falling on it made the Details ten up. The try was not converted.

The Club then came into prominence with some good work on the part of the forwards and after hammering at the "Tommies'" line for several minutes, were able to go over after a mistake by the Details' backs, Lucas scoring an unconverted try.

Mrs. Fletcher Wins C.S.F. Title

Mrs. Krenov Loses Final After Taking First Set; Ten Tennis Matches

More at home on a hardcourt, Mrs. W. J. C. Fletcher, former Hongkong singles champion, scored a fine victory over Mrs. B. Krenov by 2-6, 6-0, 6-2 yesterday in the final of the Women's Singles Championship at the Cercle Sportif Francais. In a previous meeting in the S.L.T.A. Championships Mrs. Fletcher was defeated by Mrs. Krenov.

The hardcourt champion gained her passage to the final by disposing of Mrs. Lewis Byran in a match in the morning (by 6-3). She was very steady in the whole day's play, specially against Mrs. Krenov in the second set which she won at love.

The match started with Mrs. Fletcher losing the first game on service. She broke Mrs. Krenov's service and went on to win on her second serve for a 2-1 lead. In the fourth game Mrs. Krenov drove deeply to both corners of the court and outplaced the former Hongkong star. Through persistent attacking, Mrs. Krenov reeled off five games in a row and captured the set.

Placements Tell

When the second set got under way, it seemed as if Mrs. Krenov would repeat her performance in the foregoing period because of the pace which she attained. However, Mrs. Fletcher took a new lease on life and started to play her own game, placing shots to unprotected areas in the opposing side. The first game went to several deuces before the ultimate winner came out on top. She then broke Mrs. Krenov's service to win a love game. Thereafter, the leader simply walked away with the contest and scored one of the easiest victories in the C.S.F. Championships.

The Portuguese couple took the first set by 6-2 but received stiff resistance in the second set, 11-9, which caused the score to be tied at one set all. In the third and deciding set the Portuguese were again in their usual form, winning by 6-3.

In the first semi-final match of the Men's Singles, T. C. Chang took the measure of Harry Li by 6-2, 6-4. Play was interesting for there were many long rallies. Chang was a harder worker and maintained the upperhand throughout, with Li pinned to the baseline playing defensive tennis. Chang will now meet the winner of the Poker Tong and Carson match.

The remaining finals will be played this week-end.

Yesterday's results were:

Savoia Trounced By Saints

S.F.X. Forwards Much Too Fast for Italians; Play Grows Rough

The Savoia first division team suffered another defeat on the Race Course yesterday when they were beaten 5 goals to 1 by the S.F.X. From the very start the S.F.X. forwards ran rings round their opponents. As usual Carrenza was the spearhead of the Savoia attack but the S.F.X. defence held well together and seldom allowed the Italians to get through.

Endaya at outside left for the Saints provided many amusing incidents by nipping around the much slower Savoia backs who always seemed to be tripping over the small outsider. Foyn and Edwards also played well, their combination often leaving the opposing half line completely bewildered.

From the kick off Foyn and Endaya dashed down the field as far as they could and closed in to take the well directed forward passes from Karolitch and Artchegoff. Within the first minute they made more than one attempt to score till at last Foyn got his chance and netted the ball.

Goalie Injured

The Italians soon got rattled by the fast pressing attack and by half way through the first half, play became rough though the referee had the game well in hand. Carini did his best to get hold of every ball but on one occasion when Karolitch came down and put in a particularly hard drive he let the ball slip through his hands and got the full force of it between the eyes.

He was momentarily knocked out and did not appear to recover for the remainder of the match. It was only a few minutes later when Foyn again got through and scored another easy point for the S.F.X.

The second half started off with a good deal of long passing, and play for a while was fairly even although the Italians now had the wind on their backs. Football was not being played at its best by this time as the S.F.X., being the smaller in stature, were constantly on the look out for dangerous play from the Italians. Eventually Terrico was penalised outside the S.F.X. goal area much to the annoyance of the Savoia supporters.

From this free kick the ball went up-field to Foyn who got through and shot high, but Carini made a good save by diving for the ball and catching it in mid-air. The ball was not cleared properly from the Savoia defence, Edwards collected and sent it back over the head of Carini who dived out but missed badly and left Petterson with an open goal.

Foyn Scores

With three goals now piled up against them the Savoia went all out to even the score and during a scramble round the S.F.X. goal Carrenza managed to get the ball into the goal. Two minutes later the Savoia were pulled up at the other end of the field for pushing in the penalty area.

Foyn took the penalty kick and bounced the ball in off the bar. Carrenza had been constantly disputing the decisions of the referee and was now sent off the field to be closely followed by Tarrico for the same reason. The game carried on but the Italians were too weak to hold the S.F.X. and after Edwards had got another goal the game slowed down to a walking pace until finally two more of the Italian players walked off as a protest. There was no further score and the final result remained at 5 goals to 1.

Savoia:—Carini, Zordan, Martinetti, Gandini, Tarrico, Pagnacco Mingozzi, Braga, Carrenza, Pagliaro, Murador.

S.F.X.:—Kabbert, Shultz, Borodin, Artchegoff, Foyn, Greenberg, Petterson, Garwood, Edwards, Karolitch, Endaya.

Bombay Cotton Market

Bombay, Nov. 12.

Conditions in the Bombay cotton market during the past week under review were uneventful, with no expansion of interest in evidence on either side. Trading was confined to liquidation and transferring of April/May, Broach, to purchases of July/August delivery, and of December/January, Oomras, to March. The spot market ruled quieter, with Japan a casual enquirer.

Demand from the Continent and Lancashire was non-existent, with Indian mills being well supplied out of the market. Fears that a cyclonic storm would result in damage to the cotton in interior districts were later dispelled.—Reuter.

U.S. Commodities

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, Nov. 12.

The cotton market opened higher on better general buying, influenced by higher cables. Conditions were early firm and active on general and foreign buying, influenced by better Liverpool and Bombay advices, the firmness of the stock market and good local and foreign buying. The firmness of the textile market was a contributory factor to the advance, while the spot situation continues to be tight. Finally, trading quietened down slightly with closing quotations ranging from 2 to 4 points up, compared with yesterday's final levels.

In the rubber market, values eased slightly in sympathy with cables, dealer selling and further new commission house liquidation which were absorbed by the trade and factories. At the close, declines of 3 to 11 points were recorded.

Quiet to firm conditions prevailed in the Liverpool Wheat Pit on the healthier tone prevailing in Liverpool, very light offerings from European exporting countries, an improved demand for Canadian wheat, some fears of a possible frost damage in the Argentine and the strength of securities and corn. Later, however, there was some local profit taking. At the close of the session quotations were from ¼ to ⅝ of a cent up.

Trade and commission house buying was noted in the sugar market today, owing to the continued firmness of London cables, but trading was restricted pending fresh developments. At the end of today's session gains of 1½ to 2 cents were recorded.

London Money Market

London, Nov. 12.

The ease with which borrowers obtained loans during the past week was very pronounced, and over ⅝ percent. was rarely paid for accommodation from non-clearing quarters against bonds.

The cheapness of money, however, prevented discount brokers from securing their Treasury Bills at a better rate than last week, but the market's allotment of bills showed a slight increase which imparted a steadier tendency.—Reuter.

New York Stocks

Saturday's Closing Quotations

New York, Nov. 12.

Prices on Wall Street today opened higher, with gains mostly from fractions to about two points recorded. Stocks advanced under the leadership of steels, with profit taking readily absorbed. Most steel issues recorded new highs for the year, on expectations that steel mill activity will reach a peak of 65 to 70 percent. of capacity before the end of the year. Farm implements responded to prospects of larger farm incomes. Copper shares were supported, although the decrease in copper stocks was below general expectations. Meanwhile, sentiment in more cheerful with the seasonal outlook, coupled with encouraging business news, strengthening long term optimism. The turnover today amounted to 1,010,000 shares.

Dow-Jones Summary

By Courtesy of Swan, Culbertson & Fritz

On the Stock Exchange today heavy industry shares, particularly steels, were in very good demand. Steel operations have now reached the new high level record since October 11, 1937, of 61 percent. of capacity. The Automobile Show has aided motors, whilst it is estimated that automobile production will touch a new high since November 11, 1937. October copper statistics showed that stocks are lower and that consumption has increased, Retail trade has improved, with some companies increasing their dividend disbursements.

Berlin Bourse

Berlin, Nov. 12.

Business of today's Share Market was very restricted, buying being done mostly by operators while bank customers showed an emphatic disinclination to place buying orders. Prices as a consequence showed a downward trend. To a certain extent the market was also burdened by offers on Jewish account, where liquidations were caused by the acceleration of the process of Aryanisation.

Call money stood at 2½ to 2⅝ per cent.—Trans-Ocean.

Mexican Dispute at An End

Settlement of Seizure of American-Owned Land; Oil Properties Unaffected

Washington, Nov. 12.

The State Department announced today that an amicable settlement had been reached on the 27-year-old dispute with Mexico over expropriation of American-owned agrarian property south of the Rio Grande.

A two-man commission, consisting of Mr. Lawrence Lawson, of the United States and Sr. Gustvo B. Serrano, of Mexico; will fix the valuation of the property. In the event of a disagreement, they will choose a third Commissioner in accordance with the provisions of the Gondra treaty.

The Commission will meet in Mexico City on Dec. 1, and must complete negotiations by May 31, otherwise they will be forced to choose a third Commissioner, who will submit a report within two months.

After the Commission submits its report, Mexico will make an initial payment of US$1,000,000, and thereafter, will pay at least US$1,000,000 on each June 30 until the debt has been amortized.

Sr. Edouardo Hay, Mexican Foreign Minister, sent a note to Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, emphasizing that the payments "do not constitute procedent of any case or for any reason." This was to forestall, it was believed, any effort to make this settlement a precedent for settlement of the expropriated oil lands.

Meanwhile, Mexican officials estimated that the land settlement will involve approximately US$15,000,000, a fraction of the original value, since many of the original claimants have died.—United Press.

Agreement With Oil Companies

Mexico City, Nov. 13.

"La Prensa" announced today that the Mexican Government and the expropriated oil concerns had reached agreement whereby the administration of Mexican oil would be entrusted to joint companies composed of representatives of the Government and the expropriated concerns. The joint companies would exploit Mexican oil until the indemnities for the expropriation have been paid up.

"La Prensa" added that the agreement was negotiated directly between Senor Eduardo Castilio Najera, the Mexican Ambassador in Washington, and the expropriated concerns through indirect intervention by Secretary of State Cordell Hull.—Havas.

Funeral Plans for Kemal Ataturk

Elaborate Arrangements at Ankara Being Made

Istanbul, Nov. 13.

Extensive preparations are now being made at Ankara for the reception and quartering of the various foreign delegations which will attend the funeral of Kemal Ataturk and which will include troop detachments from the Balkan Entente powers, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Greece. The solidarity of the Balkan states will be demonstrated in this manner for the first time since the death of King Alexander of Yugoslavia in 1934.

New messages of condolence from foreign potentates and governments have been received here practically without interruption. The paper "La Republique," publishes on its front page amongst others a sympathy message from Chancellor Hitler and stresses that all official buildings in Berlin have been ordered to fly their flags at halfmast for two days to express the German people's profound sympathy. The fact that the King of England will for the first time send a personal representative to the funeral of a president of a republic is also emphasized by the paper.

The body of the late President is now lying in state in the coronation room of the Dolma Bagdje palace and officers of the various services stand guard over it day and night.

Since the President's death all public cafes and restaurants have been closing at 10 p.m. and the sale of all alcoholic beverages has been prohibited.

The students of Istanbul University have asked the rector to allow all 6,000 students enrolled at the university to attend the funeral at Ankara. The university will from now on bear the name of Ataturk University.—Trans-Ocean.

Work Starts on Huge Tokyo Reservoir

Seven Years' Plan to Give Water to Capital

Tokyo, Nov. 13.

Construction work on one of the largest reservoir dams in the world was formally started at Okutama in the suburbs of Tokyo yesterday in the presence of the Home Minister, Admiral Nobumasa Suetsugu, and Mayor Ichita Kobashi.

The project will require seven years at an estimated cost of Y.60,000,000. Three villages will be submerged in the area that will be transformed into an artificial lake 40 kilometres in circumference capable of storing 18,400,000 cubic metres of water. The volume of water stored will be sufficient to supply 6,000,000 Tokyo inhabitants for 200 days during a maximum consumption period in the summer months.

More than 500 households of the three doomed villages are preparing for mass emigration to either the Hokkaido or Manchoukuo.—Domei.

40 Injured in Indiana Train Crash

South Bend, Ind., Nov. 12.

Forty passengers were injured in a disastrous railway accident near here today when two trains on the Southbend-Chicago run collided while rounding a sharp corner. Two carriages were overturned. But it is not yet known whether there are any fatalities.—Havas.

Snow in Osaka

Osaka, Nov. 13.

Osaka experienced the earliest first snow in 55 years at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 44 days earlier than on average ordinary years and 24 days earlier than last year. U.S.-Canadian Trade Accord Near

Negotiations Expected To Be Ended This Week

Washington, Nov. 12.

Mr. Cordell Hull, Secretary of State, announced today that the United States hopes to conclude the Canadian-American trade agreement negotiations next week. He refused to comment on terms of the agreement.

Mr. Hull said the United States was not involved in any plan to dispose of surplus American wheat in South America, against which Argentine last week protested on the grounds that it would be a violation of President Roosevelt's "Good Neighbour" policy and injure Argentine's vital trade with Brazil. The plan, as projected, was to dispose of Government-held wheat at world prices in order to bolster the home market.—United Press.

The Netherlands East Indies received the largest amount of shipments, being given nine licenses totalling U.S.$4,180,140, of which U.S.$4,098,739 was for military planes.—United Press.

Liberated Volunteers Demonstrate

Communist Deputy Leads Them at Perpignan

Perpignan, Nov. 12.

A convoy of French volunteers returning from Republican Spain stopped over here for a while today. The men descended from their railway carriages and, led by Communist Deputy Marty and preceded by red and Republican Spanish standards, marched to the outer courtyard of the station. The men then sang the "Marseillaise" and the "Internationale."

M. Marty clambered on to the roof of a motor bus and made a brief address, saluting the "volunteers for the cause of liberty." He advocated the opening of the Franco-Spanish frontier.

Several minutes later the returning soldiers got back into their carriages to continue the trip to Paris, where they are expected about noon tomorrow.—Havas.

Japanese Swords for Men at Front

National Movement Started To Equip Every Man

Tokyo, Nov. 13.

All Japanese officers and men at the front soon will be provided with razor-sharp Japanese swords as plans are now under way to inaugurate a nationwide drive to collect all available Japanese blades.

The drive is sponsored by officials of the Soldier's Hall, the Army Club and the Navy Club and has the support of the War and Navy Ministries.

Each sword collected, it is understood, will be closely examined for flaws and only the best will be sent to the front. The movement is already under way and approximately 300 blades have been collected. The donors include Prince Iyesato Tokugawa and Marquis Nagayuki Asano.—Domei.

Selling Wave Hits Tokyo Stock Market

Tokyo, Nov. 13.

Fear of dividend restrictions by the invocation of Article XI of the National Mobilization Act yesterday subjected the Tokyo Stock Market to a second selling wave within the past 36 hours.

Losses of from Y.4 to Y.9 were registered over an extended front. In the afternoon session, the market closed with a stiff undertone in various issues notably cottons and irons.—Domei.

Duke of Gloucester Leaves for England

Paris, Nov. 12.

The Duke and Duchess of Windsor said goodbye to the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester at the airport today following the first reunion of the two brothers in nearly two years.

The Duke and Duchess of Gloucester flew to England following their two-day visit here. It is believed that the royal family will effect a conciliation with the Windsors soon.—United Press.

Japan to Develop Railways

Three-Year Plan to Meet War-Time Needs

Tokyo, Nov. 13.

A three-year plan for the development of the Japanese railway system is under consideration by the Ministry of Railways, which estimates the total cost at Y1,000,000,000.

The plan calls for a large-scale increase in the production of rolling stock, the construction of new railway lines, and general improvement of existing transportation facilities.

The project has been devised in anticipation of protracted hostilities in China, which, it is pointed out, will necessitate continued transportation of troops and supplies. It is also designed to cope with the greatly increased civilian traffic registered in the past few years.

The Ministry of Railways is expected to raise the capital necessary for the project by the flotation of bonds.—Reuter.

"Deficiency of information in Japanese English-language newspapers is completed very successfully by an English newspaper in Kobe The Japan Chronicle . . on its pages can often be found criticisms of the political and economic actions of the Japanese Government and various other information which gives the opportunity to observe and to analyse the Japanese economic situation. In addition to the usual material obtainable from all the Japanese English-language newspapers. The Japan Chronicle gives a very detailed and comprehensive review of the foreign trade of Japan. It regularly prints statistics pertaining to Japanese exports and the state of the home market."—Extracts from U.S.S.R. Chamber of Commerce Journal.
